FROM THE DEACON'S DESK

Deacon Dan Laquet

Our readings this weekend focus on two virtues that are intertwined – wisdom and preparedness. Our first reading, from the book of Wisdom, tells us that wisdom is not elusive for those who actively seek it, are open to it, and attempt to understand it. Wisdom provides a great sense of peace for those who are deserving of it. The book of Wisdom offers comprehensive guidance on understanding God, the value of wisdom, and on living a virtuous life. Wisdom is highlighted as a divine gift that aids us in making good decisions and understanding the world around us. It suggests that wisdom is eternal, existing even before the world was created, and serves as a lens through which we can comprehend God's actions and His purpose in those actions.

In Old Testament times wisdom was seen as a tremendous virtue in the eyes of everyone. Wisdom was more important than storing up knowledge, it was knowing how to apply that knowledge. If you had wisdom, you had extraordinary common sense, and you knew how to use it to help others, to care for others, to be an asset in the community. It meant that whatever you did, no matter where you did it or how you did it, you did it well, and you did it with God's spirit upon you and with humility. You were admired by all, and practical problems of the day were brought before you to help provide solutions. In 1 Kings 3:5-12, God appeared to King Solomon in a dream and said, "Ask for whatever you want me to give to you." Solomon, who could have asked for wealth, power, immortality, or victory over his enemies, chose wisdom so that he could successfully rule and guide God's people. That's how important wisdom was viewed!

Matthew's Gospel passage presents us with another parable. In this parable, Jesus is the bridegroom, and we, as members of the Church, are the bridesmaids. We are betrothed to Jesus through our baptism and are expected to live virtuous lives while waiting for His return. Half of the bridesmaids possess wisdom, and display readiness and vigilance. The other half are called foolish, and their lack of preparation leads them to miss an opportunity that can never be recovered. Which bridesmaid group do you fall into?

The parable stresses the need for personal accountability and the value of being prepared for all events, especially important ones. Important events in our lives can happen when we least expect them, thus the need for constant readiness. Each of us is responsible for our own readiness, whether that's in our faith life, our relationships with others, or our personal endeavors in life. We must keep the "lamp" of our faith stocked with "oil" through prayer, personal growth in our faith journey, study, acts of mercy, and vigilance in how we live our lives, because when the time comes, no one can share their spiritual readiness with us. Live a vigilant and faith-filled life now as wisdom demands. We must be wise in our choices and actions to allow us to live a life more aligned with God's will. If we live our lives intentionally, we will avoid the regrets that will surely come later on.

With this parable, Jesus provides evidence that our lives are a calling from God, and with humility we should treasure it. God has called us into a life of someone who cares, someone who loves, someone who forgives, someone who looks out for the needy and the poor, someone who really understands the meaning of this life we have been given. We must carry the fire of His light within our hearts, for with it we can light the world. There are many people out there who need to experience our kindness, our goodness, our happiness, and we are the ones God has called to deliver it. We are called to serve, and when we serve, we become the children of God we were meant to be.

BOOK OF REMEMBRANCE & INTENTIONS

In November, we take a moment to reflect upon and honor the souls of our loved ones who have passed on. At the rear of the Church, you'll find the Book of Remembrance. Kindly inscribe your intentions there, and we will keep them in our prayers throughout the month. The entire month of November stands as a testament to the love and connection that transcends the boundaries of life and death. We are encouraged to visit cemeteries, light candles, and offer Masses for the repose of departed souls. Such practices, deeply rooted in tradition, reflect the Church's enduring belief in the communion of saints.
