MESSAGE FROM OUR PASTOR

Father Steven Pautler

"The Gospel According to Mom: Say Thank You!"

When we were kids, there were two words adults drilled into us like a broken record: "Say thank you." You got a piece of gum from your grandma—say thank you. Someone handed you a cookie—say thank you. Even if you were leaving the dentist's office after a tooth got yanked out, there was Mom whispering, "Say thank you." Honestly, sometimes we weren't thankful at all. A shot in the arm at the doctor? No thank you! But still, those two words were non-negotiable.

Fast forward to adult life. The lessons still follow us. Someone holds the door open—say thank you. At the drive-thru when the car in front of you surprises you with a free McDonald's order—say thank you. We don't even think twice. Gratitude is part of good manners. It's what keeps life from turning into a never-ending episode of everyone looking out for themselves.

Today's Gospel tells us about ten men with leprosy. They stood at a distance, as they had to, and cried out to Jesus for help. He healed them all, every single one. But only one guy—one out of ten—turned back to fall at Jesus' feet and say thank you. Ten were healed. Nine ran off to start their new lives. One remembered to show gratitude.

I don't think the other nine were bad people. Maybe they were in a hurry to see their families. Maybe they thought they'd send a thank-you card later. Or maybe they never had a mom whispering in their ear, "Say thank you." Still, the point is clear: gratitude matters. Jesus noticed the absence of it. He even asked, "Where are the other nine?"

Gratitude isn't about fancy gestures. It's about noticing the gift and the giver. When we say thank you to God, we recognize His hand in our daily lives. We admit we didn't earn everything by ourselves. It's humbling. It's joyful. It's freeing.

And here's the kicker—gratitude makes us healthier, too. Studies show grateful people live longer, sleep better, and are less grumpy at Walmart checkout lines. Imagine that! Jesus didn't heal the lepers so He could get applause. But He wanted them to be whole in body and soul. The thankful one received more than healing. He received salvation.

So maybe the Gospel is reminding us to keep those two simple words alive. Say thank you. To God. To others. Even after the dentist. Especially after McDonald's. Because gratitude is not just good manners. It's the heartbeat of faith.

This week's question:

This week's question: I had a failed marriage. I haven't remarried, but I sometimes date. Can I receive Holy Communion?

Answer:

Yes. Divorce alone doesn't bar you from the Eucharist. As long as you're not in another marriage outside the Church and you're in a state of grace, the Lord welcomes you. Dating itself isn't sinful, just live chastely and keep Christ at the center. If you're ever unsure, talk with your priest. His job is to walk with you, not to chase you away.

Paws, Claws, Fins, and Feathers: St. Mary School Students Celebrate St. Francis with a Joyful Blessing of Animals!

St. Mary School came together in a joyful spirit to celebrate the Memorial of St. Francis of Assisi, the patron saint of animals and the environment. The students filled the church with their voices during Mass, listening closely as Father Steve shared the story of St. Francis, explaining how he gave up wealth and comfort to live a simple life of love for God and all creation. The children learned about his deep care for animals, his kindness to the poor, and his constant call for peace. Many of the students were amazed to hear that St. Francis even preached to birds and called the sun and moon his brother and sister.

After Mass, the excitement continued as the entire school moved to the parking lot for the Blessing of the Animals. Students stood proudly beside their family pets, smiling as Father Steve and Deacon Dan went from group to group. Dogs wagged their tails, cats looked curiously around, bunny rabbits twitched their noses, goldfish swam calmly in bowls, and guinea pigs wiggled in their cages. The children's joy was contagious as they held their pets close, waiting for the blessing. Even those who didn't bring an animal came forward to receive a blessing themselves, reminding everyone that God's care includes us all. The turnout was wonderful, with parents, grandparents, and parishioners joining the students to celebrate. It was a moment that combined learning, prayer, and laughter, teaching the children not only who St. Francis was but also showing them how faith touches every part of life, even the furry and feathered friends we love so much.

Purrs from the Pew Sister Fluff of Divine Mischief

Sister Fluff's Trick-or-Treat Takeover!

My dear parish friends, the hour of reckoning has come. Father Steve promised me something sweet from Mickey's Not So Scary Halloween Party, and I'm prowling every corner of this parish in search of it. Candy corn, chocolate bars, or even a stray gummy worm. Where is it? Father Steve said, "Don't worry, Fluff. I'll bring you back some treats." Well, promise made, promise due.

So where is he? Did Father Steve stay in Florida, lounging in the sun with Sister Gracie? If that's the case, then the parish and school are officially under my command. I now patrol the church steps, the classrooms, the playground, and even the cafeteria.

Students, beware. If I smell chocolate, I'll find it. Eighth-grade cross country runners, you may be quick, but I've been training on stealthy pounces for years. Even our littlest future fun runners better guard their candy buckets with both hands.

Until Father Steve returns, I will keep faithful watch over our sacred spaces with whiskers twitching and tail held high. Should Father Steve come back without the promised candy, I will deliver a feline sermon sharper than my claws.

Paws, prayers, and candy

cravings,
Sister Fluff, F.D.M.
Feline of Divine Mischief

St. Mary School proudly recognized our 8th grade cross country runners for their dedication and hard work this season. To make the celebration even more exciting, we invited some of our future runners to join in a one-mile fun run. The younger students ran with energy and smiles, cheered on by classmates and parents.
