MESSAGE FROM OUR PASTOR

Father Steven Pautler

"The Thanksgiving That Taught Me Where Real Kingdoms Are Found."

I remember that Thanksgiving morning I remember that Thanksgiving morning as if it were stitched into the fabric of my heart. The hospital hallway felt still. The kind of stillness you sense when life stands at a crossroads. Mom and I sat beside my grandmother Lillie as she slept. The doctor stepped in, glanced at the chart, and delivered news that dropped like a stone. Immediate surgery. Mom's voice trembled when she answered. "But it's Thanksgiving." The doctor didn't flinch. They were prepping her within minutes. Our plans, our family gathering, the food waiting at the American Legion, all of it faded behind one truth. Grand-ma Lillie needed help, and we were staying put.

The hours dragged. That late morning hunger set in. I found myself thinking of turkey, dressing, potatoes, and the kind of feast you look forward to all year. Mom and I wandered to the cafeteria. The cook placed two round slices of processed turkey on the griddle. A scoop of stuffing from a box. Mashed potatoes made from flakes. A slice of pumpkin pie that leaned a little to the right. We carried our trays back upstairs. Mom sat across from me. The food wasn't fancy. The moment was. I looked at her and thought, this is the best Thanksgiving meal of my life! Not because of flavor. Because of love. Because we were exactly where we needed to be. Grandma came out of surgery and opened her eyes with fire. "Take me home!" she said. And we laughed with relief.

The readings for the Solemnity of Christ the King speak with the same clarity. They draw us away from distractions and set our eyes on what matters. In Second Samuel, the tribes come to David and recognize something deeper than earthly power. They acknowledge the one chosen to shepherd them. The psalm lifts a song of joy as the people go up to the house of the Lord. They know where their true center lies. Paul tells the Colossians to give thanks to the Father who delivered us from darkness and brought us into the kingdom of his beloved Son. In Luke's Gospel, the dying thief turns to Jesus with a final plea. And Jesus, bruised and mocked yet reigning from the wood of the cross, gives a promise stronger than death. "Today you will be with me in Paradise."

Christ our King stands at the center of these readings with a strength no earthly throne delivers. David is anointed over all Israel and entrusted with shepherding the people. His kingship points forward to the One who reigns forever. The psalm urges the tribes to journey to the Lord's house where judgment, peace, and unity rise from His presence. Paul proclaims Christ as the image of the invisible God. The firstborn of all creation. The One through whom everything holds together. On the cross, Luke shows the world's true King crowned not with gold but with sacrifice. Every reading gathers itself around one truth. Christ rules with love stronger than sin and a power that restores every broken place. Thanksgiving invites us to see His hand in the quiet corners of our lives. The small mercies. The steady presence of God. The love that holds us. And the King who never leaves His people.

Anecdote!

After a long and draining day, the hospital door opened and in walked my brother Brian, my sister in law Alice, my niece Heather, and my nephew Travis. They took one look at Grandma resting peacefully and said it was time for real food. Off we went to Ryan's Steak House. The moment we stepped in, the smell alone lifted our spirits. Turkey with flavor. Potatoes with substance. Stuffing that did not come from a scoop. We filled our plates and laughed like people who had survived something heroic. It was a meal fit for a

This week's question:

A man from our parish, who came to Mass with his family every week, was deported. His wife and children are still here, and I feel heartbroken. Is there anything I can do?

Answer:

Yes, there is. First, pray for them. Prayer isn't a small thing, it's strength when words fall short. Then, reach out to the family. Bring a meal, offer rides, help with Faith Formation, or simply listen. The Church teaches that we are one body in Christ. When one member suffers, we all do. You can also ask your pastor or parish office if there's a diocesan immigration ministry or Catholic Charities contact. Your compassion and presence speak the Gospel louder than any homily ever could. Poor. Beauty lifts the soul. Charity feeds it. The Church is called to do both.

Vocation Corners November 23, 2025

This coming week we celebrate a National Day of Thanksgiving. We, Catholics, give even greater thanks for all the gifts that God has bestowed on us and for us to share. Each one of us has been given a unique calling to Holiness. Each one is to serve the Lord in her/his own "called" way. A vocational calling is asking us to surrender our talents to God so that they may be sanctified and produce fruit for the Kingdom.

Respect Life Corner November 23, 2025

In November, we join Pope Leo XIV in praying for his monthly intention for the prevention of suicide. Let us pray that those who are struggling with suicidal thoughts might find the support, care, and love they need in their community, and be open to the beauty of life. Please also continue to pray for the defeat of SB 1950, which would legalize assisted suicide in the state of Illinois, and consider contacting Governor Pritzker's office at 312-814-2121, asking him to veto the bill.

Quote for the week: What's meant to be will always find its way

The Solemnity of Christ the King

Sunday is the Thirty-Fourth Sunday in Ordinary Time and the last week of the liturgical year. As always on this last Sunday, we celebrate the Solemnity of Christ the King. The readings remind us of God's faithfulness to us as he promises to shepherd the people of Israel. In Luke's Gospel we are taken to the crucifixion and Jesus being mocked as "King of the Jews." The man crucified next to him asks Jesus to remember him when he gets into his Kingdom. Jesus replies, "Amen, I say to you, today you will be with me in Paradise."

In the US, Thursday is Thanksgiving Day, with its own set of readings.

The first reading this last week of the liturgical year is from the Book of Daniel. These apocalyptic and mystical readings were written to give encouragement to the Jewish people in the face of persecution.

The stories in the Gospel of Luke this week offer a look at the meaning of generosity as the poor widow offers her two small coins. Jesus cautions against those who will come in his name promising salvation: "Do not follow them!" The cost of following his teaching is made clear, "You will be hated by all because of my name, but not a hair on your head will be destroyed." In a dramatic look at the end time, echoing the Daniel readings, Jesus says, "And then they will see the Son of Man coming in a cloud with power and great glory." Jesus continues the "end time" message saying, "know that the Kingdom of God is near. Amen, I say to you, this generation will not pass away until all these things have taken place." He cautions, "Beware that your hearts do not become drowsy from carousing and drunkenness and the anxieties of daily life, and that day catch you by surprise like a trap."

The First Sunday of Advent begins a new liturgical year and the beginning of a season filled with the riches of our scripture readings. For the next few weeks, the main focus will be on the first reading, with the gospel chosen to accompany it. Isaiah offers the people of God a promise of peace: "They shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks." Matthew's gospel is the story of Noah and a caution from Jesus to prepare "for an hour you do not expect."

Daily Prayer This Week

The old and the new come together this week as we bring this liturgical year to a close and look ahead to Advent, which begins Sunday. We reflect that Jesus is our Savior and King. This means we are called to help build up the kingdom by loving Jesus in our poorest brothers and sisters. We will encounter readings about the generosity of a poor widow and the warning of the approaching end of time. This is meant to help us begin our preparations for Advent. The actual end of the world may not be at hand, but the Kingdom of God is always at hand for us. It takes focus and paying attention to notice the signs, the ways the Lord makes himself available to us in the midst of our busy days.

We prepare for Advent this week when we can begin a small, but honest prayer, "Come, Lord, Jesus. Come into this place and into the conflict in my life. Let me be attentive and open to see the places where I am restless, distracted and too busy. Come into my real situation - not the way I present myself to others. Come to me - the real me that needs you." We need this kind of preparation. These are challenging times. Holidays stretch us and test us. Sometimes, under the stress of it all, we regress into behaviors that are bad and destructive, because they are familiar and what so many others are doing. Relationships get strained. Alcohol rarely brings cheer without at times risking bad patterns. So, praying these days - while very busy - praying out of our needs and even our pain - roots us in relationship with the One who always comes to save us.

For those of us in the U.S., we shouldn't miss reflecting on the meaning of Thanksgiving Day. It is an important time to be grateful for what we have received and to accept our responsibility for being good stewards of what we have, sharing God's gifts to us in loving service to others.

For all of us, this is a week to be grateful and to experience the beginning of Advent on Sunday. We can prepare to walk into Church more alert, more ready to explore our longing. We can take advantage of the many resources offered on the "Praying Advent" pages.

As we grow in our practice of connecting with our Lord and friend in brief moments throughout each day, we can develop the habit of giving thanks each night for what we have received.

Wildcards Bring Home the Glory!

Our winning streak continues. Congratulations to the St. Mary and Willow Grove Wildcats on claiming the OBC Conference Tournament Championship. You played with grit, heart, and a steady confidence that belongs to a team that knows exactly who they are. Your teamwork spoke louder than any scoreboard. Your determination carried every quarter. Your effort honored your coaches, your schools, and every fan who cheered until their voice gave out. Well done, Wildcards. Keep charging forward.

When the Resch pilots took flight, Turner launched a full Tucker transformation!

Dress as a Family Member Day brought out the full circus at SMS and everyone enjoyed it. The Resch kiddos walked in looking like they had a connecting flight to Charlotte. Three miniature pilots. Sharp ties. Captain hats set at the perfect tilt. Their dad, First Officer JJ, and their grandpa, Captain Rodney, probably wondered if they still had a job or if these three staged a takeover.

Then there was Turner. Good grief. When Turner commits, he does not tiptoe in. He dives headfirst. While most kids slipped into Mom's shirt or Dad's boots, Turner transformed into Tucker, his freshman brother, with such devotion you would think he was preparing for a documentary. He matched the clothes. He copied the smile. He even dyed his hair. That is not imitation. That is dedication.

The halls were packed with every character imaginable. Nurses with proud stethoscopes. Little ones in onesies honoring their baby siblings. Construction gear. Caution vests. Security badges. Policemen. Even a few pint-sized lawyers ready to object to recess ending.

PURRS FROM THE PEW - Sister Fluff of Divine Mischief

Sister Fluff and the Case of the Missing Organ

I approached the church this week with the confidence of a seasoned detective. A kitten of prayer. A sleuth with whiskers. I slipped inside for my morning patrol and nearly fainted. The organ was gone. Vanished. Evaporated into thin incense. I sat there on the sanctuary floor, tail twitching, certain the apocalypse had arrived. Then my training kicked in. A sister must stay steady. Panic never solved a mystery. I began gathering clues. Near the choir loft I found a candy wrapper. Suspicious. On a pew I discovered cough drops. Even more suspicious. Then, by the door, the most alarming evidence of all. Something that appeared to be the remains of a sandwich. I gasped. Sandwich-eating critters are the worst kind! They have no respect for sacred spaces or proper liturgical diet. I sniffed around, convinced an entire woodland congregation had staged a heist. My mind raced. Maybe squirrels struck first. Their little paws love mischief. Or a mouse with a taste for tuna decided to upgrade to sacred music. I prepared my report for Father. I noted every crumb with great seriousness. Eventually the humans explained the organ was taken away for renovation. I blinked. Renovation is not nearly as thrilling as a daring critter conspiracy. Still, I suppose the Lord prefers accuracy in all things. I gave the empty loft a final look, lifted a paw in blessing, and headed off to complete my rounds. Paws steady, prayers steady,

Sandoval, IL 62882

Dear Friends at St. Lawrence Catholic,

Big things usually start with something small, don't they?

The first email ever sent in 1971 contained just the word "test." It was typed by engineer Ray Tomlinson as part of a simple experiment—but that small moment sparked a revolution in how the world communicates. Today, over 300 billion emails are sent every day, all because of one tiny message.

When it comes to our own lives, the same principle applies. We're told by Jesus to be faithful in the small things, so that the Lord will give us stewardship over the big things.

To some people, change, checks and cash in baby bottles may seem small. But to the Pregnancy Care Clinic it's a huge impact on the lives of the unborn and those who are in need of assistance and education from the Clinic.

Together with 67 churches you helped raise over $42,000 and fill almost 2000 baby bottles!

Thank you so much for participating in our 2025 Baby Bottle Campaign!

Your church raised: $420.87

Thank you for your gift, and for being part of this ministry. You've made a difference in the lives of those we see, and you are appreciated!

With deep gratitude,
