MESSAGE FROM OUR PASTOR

Father Steven Pautler

"Straight Talk, Camel Hair, and Uncle Joe's Advent Wake-Up Call."

Every family has at least one person who speaks with the subtlety of a freight train rolling through a quiet town. You know the type. They sit at the Thanksgiving table with a plate of turkey in one hand and a full opinion in the other. Some of you sat across from that person a few days ago. Uncle Joe never hesitates to tell you what he thinks about the country, the city council, how chewy the turkey is, or the color of the new stoplight. You learn to keep your mouth shut unless you want to set off a fire alarm that rings through Advent and into Lent.

John the Baptist carried that same brand of honesty. He stepped out of the wilderness with camel hair on his back, locust crumbs on his breath, and thunder in his voice. He did not bother with small talk. He did not worry about charm. He looked a crowd straight in the eye and dropped the line no one at Thanksgiving wants to hear. You brood of vipers. That will silence a room.

John was bold because he knew the moment was serious. Something sacred approached. He felt the weight of it and refused to let anyone drift through life half-awake. Prepare the way of the Lord. Clear out the junk. Straighten the path.

Advent has no patience for sleepy hearts. John was not trying to embarrass anyone. His bluntness was an act of charity. When truth is spoken without spin, without varnish, it shakes you awake in a way soft words cannot. He wanted people ready for the One who stood among them. He wanted them alert. He wanted them hungry for the Messiah who carried fire that would not burn them, but refine them. Advent asks for the same from us. A little straight talk. A little honesty. A little courage to admit where the road has gotten crooked. It is easy to glide through December on cinnamon rolls and Christmas movies. Advent calls for more. It calls for a heart that knows why we wait.

Maybe you hear John's voice echoing somewhere in your life. Maybe he sounds like that friend who pulls you aside and tells you the truth. Maybe he sounds like that relative who says what everyone else is afraid to say. Maybe he sounds like your own conscience nudging you to quit stalling and take a step toward grace.

John points to Christ and steps out of the way. His voice wakes us, but it is the Lord who heals us. He comes with mercy stronger than our excuses, with hope steady enough to guide us through the darkest stretch of winter. So let Uncle Joe talk. Let John shout. Let the truth jolt us awake. Advent has arrived. Straighten the path. The Lord draws near.

This week's question:

Advent's supposed to be a quiet, prayerful time. But between shopping, parties, and parish fundraisers, I feel like I need an Advent for my Advent. Help!

Answer:

You're not alone. Advent often looks more like a marathon than a retreat. The key isn't escaping the season but finding little pauses within it. Pray while waiting in line. Light your Advent wreath before dinner. Skip one event and use that time to breathe with God. The desert of Advent isn't always sand and silence. It's choosing calm in the chaos. Christ came quietly, and He still prefers to arrive that way.

Quote for the week: We all have something to offer to God and others.

Second Week of Advent

In the Second Sunday of Advent we hear Isaiah write of peace and prosperity that will come when the “root of Jesse” blossoms. “Then the wolf shall be a guest of the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; the calf and the young lion shall browse together, with a little child to guide them.” Matthew’s Gospel brings us the famous Advent reading of John the Baptist serving as a voice of one crying out in the desert, “Prepare the way of the Lord, make straight his paths.” Monday is the Solemnity of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary with its own special readings. On Friday, the US and many parts of the Americas celebrate the Feast of Our Lady of Guadalupe.

We focus on the first readings from the Prophet Isaiah this week. With the Babylonian Captivity, the temple was destroyed, the leaders of the people were taken away to Babylon and a remnant was left behind. A life-threatening desert separated the people. In this context, Isaiah proclaims God’s vindication of the people in exile. The desert will be reborn. A highway will bring their liberation. And the signs will be that there is healing and peace. “Comfort, give comfort to my people,” says the Lord. The valleys will be filled in, the mountains leveled - every obstacle will be overcome - to build a highway for our God to come and save us. The people can hardly believe the good news. They are weak and weary of their captivity. Isaiah proclaims, “They that hope in the LORD will renew their strength, they will soar as with eagles’ wings.” He offers support: “I am the LORD, your God, who grasp your right hand; It is I who say to you, ‘Fear not, I will help you.’” The people have been at a distance from the Lord for some time and were not obeying the commandments. The Lord says, “I, the LORD, your God, teach you what is for your good, and lead you on the way you should go.” The final first reading this week is a piece from the book of Sirach in which the prophet Elijah is praised. Elijah, who was destined to come again to restore order before the day of the Lord, is seen in the reading from Matthew’s Gospel to be John the Baptist.

The gospels this week, taken from various evangelists, show Jesus as the fulfillment of the liberation promised. Jesus heals the paralytic. He tends to the lost sheep of his flock. He comforts us who labor and are burdened. Jesus teaches a true wisdom.

The Third Sunday of Advent repeats an Isaiah reading from earlier in the week, filled with promise, healing and a hope for our longing: “Then will the lame leap like a stag, then the tongue of the mute will sing... They will meet with joy and gladness, sorrow and mourning will flee.” In Matthew’s Gospel, John the Baptist hears of Jesus’ work and sends a message to his cousin: “Are you the one who is to come, or should we look for another?” Jesus replies that his work speaks for itself. “The blind regain their sight, the lame walk, lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, and the poor have the good news proclaimed to them.”

Daily Prayer This Week

Finding intimacy with God in the midst of our busy lives begins with getting in touch with our own desires. Advent is a wonderful time to ask myself, “What am I looking for? What do I desire? What longing can I recognize in my heart?” The answers to those questions will be our best guide for daily prayer. The readings this week offer some possible ways to talk with the Lord about our desires.

We can begin by trying to get in touch with a part of my heart that is divided, perhaps with a desert separating the two parts. For example, is there a disconnect between my primary commitments and the amount of time and attention that I give to them? Is there a distance between who I say I am and who I actually am? Do I experience something missing between what I believe and how I live those beliefs? We all have these contradictions and inconsistencies within us. These are the places into which we can let our Advent desiring grow. This week, we can imagine the prophet saying, “There will be a path between what is separate or divided or at a distance in your life!” or “What is desert, barren, dry and life-less in you will come to life!” We can hear, “You will find freedom and comfort, where you have been finding yourself in a captivity to pattern and routine, where you have felt weak and weary.” “Learn from the Lord and learn real wisdom.”

When one or more of these desires really strikes a chord in our hearts, Advent begins for us. Each morning this week, we can turn to our God, when we first wake up, while in the shower or getting dressed, and simply ask: “Come, Lord. Come into this place, into this embarrassing place of need in my life.” We may be able to be specific and ask, “Please, Lord, come and be with me and bring life and hope into my morning as I face this meeting.” As we go to work or do laundry or shop, or head home from work, we might ask even more specifically for the grace to love - to take the liberating journey across the desert and let the Lord bring us home to a place of comfort, healing and peace.

Advent is about our coming to a felt sense of our need for a Savior and letting our Savior into our hearts to save us. Advent comes alive for us as we identify our desires and let them be expressed as longing and expectant hope. Into this space our Lord comes with good news, healing and a peace the world can’t give. As we taste our desires and longing grow, we can give thanks each evening before we go to bed, to acknowledge we are being given a great grace of a growing intimacy with our God, right in the midst of our very busy days.

Grateful Nod to Gaetti Sports Academy!

Gaetti Sports Academy stepped in with steady support for our Food Drive and it showed in the smiles on our students' faces. Their presence beside our kids gave the whole effort a boost. They backed the work with a spirit of teamwork and service our school respects. Saint Mary School Centralia gathered 1,452 items and we are proud of every student and staff member who lifted a box or stacked a can. I am thankful for Gaetti Sports Academy for standing shoulder to shoulder with us. Their kindness strengthened our outreach and reminded our young people that strong communities grow when good folks pitch in.

Purrs from the Pew, Sister Fluff of Divine Mischief

News Release! Padre Support Kitty Takes Florida By Storm!

Ok, now wait a minute. Stop the press because Father Steve looked at me with his serious pastor stare and said, Fluff, I need to talk to you, and my ears shot straight up. I thought he found the Snickers I hid behind the chair, but instead he announced his return trip to Florida on Sunday, December 14. I launched into action. I dragged my nap blanket across the floor like a heroine on a mission, stuffed two cans of Kitty Cuisine, into my tiny travel sack, scooped up my emergency Snickers, and declared I am going! Father Steve paused with the expression of a man who knows he lost the argument before he started. He promised to see if I would be able to receive official status as his "Support Feline." After years of loyal service, I deserve the title. First, I will surprise Sister Grace with a dramatic entrance. I will ride Guardians of the Galaxy with my fur flying in every direction. I will eat cookies until I reach a spiritual level few kittens ever see. I will drink hot chocolate until my tail twitches. A proper vest is next. I want "Padre Support Kitty" across the back with twinkle lights bright enough for every guest in Florida to notice. I even decided to track down the big mouse in charge. It is time he met a feline with purpose. With a little charm, I might secure a spot on a parade float. Or maybe a seat next to Cinderella as she glides from her castle. A holy kitten deserves a moment of honor, and I plan to claim mine with confidence and a full belly. Arrivederci...
