Reflection for the Exaltation of the Cross:

Our True Family Heirloom!

How many of you have something in your home that was “passed down”? Maybe it’s grandma’s wedding ring, a photo that somehow survived the 1900s without being taped to a refrigerator, or even a slightly suspicious fruitcake that’s been making the rounds since 1978.

Family keepsakes come in all shapes and sizes. In my own family, one such treasure was a lithograph of Jesus on the Cross, carried to America by my ancestors in the 1850s. Imagine it, across the Atlantic in a crowded ship, through wars, tragedies, and joys, that image stayed with the Pautler’s. At some point, my dad Tony received it from his aunt. When Dad passed in 1995, I forgot all about it. Years later, after my ordination, my mom Marge pulled it out of the closet during a family gathering. She handed it to me and said, “I guess this belongs to you now.”

Now, let me tell you, priests get handed a lot of things. Old prayer cards, plastic rosaries, a mysterious casserole dish no one claims. But this moment was different. Here was an image of Christ on the Cross that had been looked upon by generations of my family. They prayed before it, cried before it, hoped before it. And now, ready or not, it was mine to carry forward. I’ll admit, I felt humbled. More than humbled, I felt a little nervous, like someone had just trusted me with the family’s crown jewels.

That’s what today’s feast, the Exaltation of the Cross, is really about. We lift high the Cross not because it’s pretty or decorative, but because it has endured. Just like that lithograph, the Cross has traveled through centuries, through storms and wars, through the wreckage of sin and the joy of salvation. It has been gazed upon by countless believers, each finding in it strength, healing, and mercy.

And in John’s Gospel, we hear the heart of it: “God so loved the world that He gave His only Son.” Not loaned, not rented out, not given with a return receipt. He gave. The Cross is the keepsake that isn’t tucked away in a closet, it’s lifted up for all to see, to remind us of the relentless, sometimes baffling, always overwhelming love of God. So next time you dust off a family treasure, remember this: the greatest keepsake we’ve been handed down is the Cross of Christ. And unlike that fruitcake, it never expires.

This week’s question:

I recently watched the canonization of Sts. Carlo Acutis and Pier Giorgio Frassati. Could I be declared a saint someday?

Answer:

Absolutely! That’s the whole point of baptism; you’re already on the saint-track. The canonized saints are the “official Hall of Famers,” but heaven is also filled with countless “hidden saints” who never made it onto a holy card. If you live faithfully, love God and neighbor, and die in His grace, you’ll be a saint, whether or not anyone is naming schools after you. Sainthood isn’t about statues; it’s about how you live and love today.

THE EXALTATION OF THE HOLY CROSS

Jesus said to Nicodemus: “No one has gone up to heaven except the one who has come down from heaven, the Son of Man.” For God did not send his Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world might be saved through him. - Jn 3:13, 17

A Prayer for Priests

Gracious and loving God, we thank you for the gift of our priests.
Through them, we experience your presence in the sacraments.
Help our priests to be strong in their vocation.
Set their souls on fire with love for your people.
Grant them the wisdom, understanding, and strength they need to follow in the footsteps of Jesus.
Inspire them with the vision of your Kingdom.
Give them the words they need to spread the Gospel.
Allow them to experience joy in their ministry.
Help them to become instruments of your divine grace.
We ask this through Jesus Christ, who lives and reigns as our Eternal Priest.

Amen.

Vocation Corners September 14, 2025

Today's Gospel is the popular, often quoted, section from John 3:16 – “For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son”. We see it often proclaimed at professional sporting events. Do we embrace those words? Can we give of ourselves to consider a vocation to the Priesthood or Sisterhood? Can we encourage and support our young folks who might be pondering this path in life? Be bold and pose the question – “Are you considering a religious vocation?”

Respect Life Corner September 14, 2025

“We pray to you, O Lord, that we always recognize each member of this human family as being made in your image and beloved by you, with worth and dignity.”
USCCB, “Prayer to Heal Racial Division”

Quote for the week: If Jesus is your best friend, you have the best friend ever.

The Exaltation of the Holy Cross

The “serpent” certainly plays its part in the play of the Pentateuch. In Genesis it is the Tempter for Adam’s satisfying his hunger for all. In our First Reading for this feast, the “serpent” bites and kills the complaining hungry.

Moses speaks with God about God’s punishing the complainers and is told to make a “bronze” image of a “serpent” and all shall be saved who look upon it. Apparently, God created us to hunger for more without complaining about what we have. John’s Gospel places Jesus as King, nailed to His Throne and gazing upon His fallen kingdom with acceptance and with His arms stretched out in embrace.

In our Gospel Reading for this feast, Jesus, Who is being interrogated by a Jewish holy official, puts it clearly, He has entered our human condition of hunger. Nicodemus, who wants to know more, that believing is a way of knowing. We easily can say, “O, I see” when we understand. Nicodemus desires to see and in John’s account of Jesus’ life, seeing signs is the invitation to believe what is behind and within the signs.

Jesus’ being lifted is an historical reality and a living-unto-death a deeper than historical revelation. “I desire to tell you Who I have been and am, so you can accept who you have always been and will be eternally.”

In John chapter nineteen, verse 37, we read, “They will look upon him whom they have pierced.” In all of John’s Gospel, seeing, looking is the invitation to go beyond, go into and receive what’s being revealed. The Exaltation is the raising of the cross with the body of Jesus upon it and even more, the whole human race and history are raised from trying to save itself, fill itself. What we all have hunger for is to be loved so that we might be saved from our not loving ourselves.

As we will always want more of whatever is good so by that getting more we will be more and so be loved. The Exaltation of the Cross is the most more God reveal to us, share with us, not in “condemnation” but embraced and saved, not in a judicial, but loved more than we can humanly see, but believe. The Cross was inserted into the earth as an Exalted permanent sacrament which saves us from hungering for what God gives without our complaining.

THANK YOU!

A huge thank you to all our Autumnfest volunteers—you made the day run smoother than butter on hot pancakes! From cakes to cleanup, you poured your heart (and maybe your back muscles) into making it a joyful celebration. Because of you, St. Mary's shined with faith, laughter, and the kind of fun that only happens when God's people roll up their sleeves together!

Thank you to all our Autumnfest supporters, sponsors, and patrons. You turned a simple parish festival into the social event of the season (move over, State Fair!). Your generosity, laughter, and appetite for raffle tickets, bratwursts, and delicious food made it all possible!

PURRS FROM THE PEW - Sister Fluff of Divine Mischief

Sister Fluff and the Aftermath of Autumnfest!

Well, friends, I survived Autumnfest! Barely. Let me tell you, it was not for the faint of fur. My paws are still sticky from frosting raids, and my whiskers might be permanently dusted in powdered sugar. Somewhere between the caramel apples, brownies, and trays of cookies, I lost all sense of feline dignity.

One nap should have solved it, but alas, even twelve naps in a row could not cure the sugar crash.

Just when I thought I might never recover, my Aunt Sister Gracie phoned in from her deluxe cat condo at Disney World. She said, "Fluff, moderation is a virtue. Even St. Paul would tell you to run the race, not roll to the finish line!" Good advice, Auntie, but easier said than done when the humans pile sweets higher than Mount Sinai.

So this week it's off to the kitty gym. I'll be padding the laps, chasing the elusive red dot of penance, and working off a few ounces of holy gluttony. May-be I'll even fast between meals. (Well, at least between breakfast and second breakfast.) I suppose even cats must practice a little discipline, though I prefer to call it "holy stretching."

Besides, the gym smells nothing like tuna, so temptation levels are low. Still, a cat's halo gets a little brighter when she resists the treat jar.

Until next time, may your temptations be fewer, your laps lighter, and your hearts full of grace.

—Sister Fluff, F.D.M. (Feline of Divine Mischief)
