Reverend Steven Pautler

On a quiet Sunday morning in August 2012, the Sikh Temple of Wisconsin became the site of a terrible tragedy. A man filled with hatred entered during morning worship and took six lives. It was an unspeakable act of violence against people simply gathered in prayer.

But what followed was even more powerful than the hate that tried to destroy them. The Sikh community responded not with anger or vengeance, but with radical love. They mourned with dignity. They prayed not only for their own healing, but for the healing of the world. They kept their temple open. They continued to feed hundreds every day, welcoming anyone — stranger or friend — to the table.

In 2015, during my first year of seminary, I had the privilege to visit that same temple. I walked into a sacred space where sorrow had once shaken the walls. I saw the scars — quiet, physical reminders of the past. And yet, I was greeted with peace. With kindness. With love. I sat down, removed my shoes, shared a meal, and listened. And in the midst of that experience, I realized I was learning something profound: love isn't just an emotion. It's a decision. A commitment. A spiritual discipline.

Something extraordinary happened in the wake of that tragedy: people from every background, religion, and walk of life came forward. Churches, mosques, and synagogues sent messages of support. Schoolchildren made cards. Strangers brought flowers. Local residents gathered outside the temple to pray. What began as an act of hate was transformed into a wave of compassion — an outpouring of love that reached far beyond Oak Creek.

That is the kind of love Jesus speaks of in this Sunday's Gospel: "Love one another. As I have loved you, so you also should love one another. This is how all will know that you are my disciples — if you have love for one another." (John 13:34-35) It's not a passive love. It's not conditional. It's the kind of love that kneels to wash another's feet, that forgives even when wounded, and that invites people in — even when the world says to shut them out.

The Sikh community in Oak Creek didn't just survive that day; they became a witness. A living testimony to the truth that love is stronger than hate, light is stronger than darkness, and grace is stronger than fear. In many ways, they lived out the Gospel without ever quoting it. They showed what it means to be disciples of love — by feeding the hungry, welcoming the stranger, and holding space for healing.

As Christians, we are called to do the same. We may not always find ourselves in such dramatic circumstances, but every day we are given the opportunity to choose love — in how we speak, how we listen, how we forgive, and how we show up for one another. May we be known not by our opinions or our titles, but by our love. Because that is the mark of a true disciple.

"Radical solidarity compels us to come alongside vulnerable mothers in profound friendship, compassion, and support for both them and their preborn children. It requires us to address the fundamental challenges that lead an expectant mother to believe she is unable to welcome the child God has entrusted to her. We must do all we can to provide mothers, children, and families with the support they need to flourish. This cannot be accomplished by laws or policy alone, but requires the continual transformation of our own hearts, recognizing in every person the face of Christ, and placing their needs before our own."
USCCB Secretariat of Pro-Life Activities, "Radical Solidarity"

Quote for the week: Enjoy the little things in life, one day you will realize they were the big things.

Fifth Week of Easter

The Fifth Sunday of Easter brings us stories from Acts of the Apostles of Paul and Barnabas and their work in the early church. They spread the good news to the Gentiles and then “called the church together and reported what God had done with them and how he had opened the door of faith to the Gentiles.” John's Gospel returns to the Last Supper. Jesus gives his followers a new way of life: “This is how all will know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another.”

All week, as we read about the inspiring development in the early community - with the acceptance of the good news by the Gentiles - we experience the assurance of Jesus.

The Gospels this week continue the “Last Discourse” of our Lord, taking chapters 14 and 15 of the Fourth Gospel.

In these marvelous chapters we experience Jesus, “the way, the truth and the light.” He consoles his disciples with the gift of his peace, which is different than the peace the world offers.

What Jesus gives is a relationship as close as a vine is to its branches. He calls us to remain connected with him so that we can remain fruitful. Without him, we dry up and wither. When we are so united with Jesus, we can ask him for whatever we need to be fruitful. His invitation is for us to remain in his love, to make our home there. The resulting relationship is that of a friend. And this friendship is his gift to us - not our choosing him, but Jesus choosing us as friends who can open our hearts to him.

Therefore, in this relationship of connectedness and fruitful love flowing to us and through us to others, Jesus says that the one command he gives us is that we love one another - that we stay loving and fruitful.

Finally, Jesus reminds us that if the world didn't like his announcing and living of this good news, then it won't like our announcing and living it either.

John's Gospel offers us comfort and peace in a very direct way for the 6th Sunday of Easter. Jesus says “Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you. Not as the world gives do I give it to you. Do not let your hearts be troubled or afraid.”

Daily Prayer This Week

We can hold the words of Jesus in our hearts all week. As we do, we will discover their attractiveness and invitation. We will also encounter resistance in ourselves and in others.

It takes practice to stay focused in the background of our daily life. We all have years of habit to overcome. However, we can practice letting this consoling message of Jesus find a place in our awareness at various points in our day, whether it is in the shower, while getting dressed, or simply whenever we are on our way from one place to another. Sometimes it will take a conscious effort to let these thoughts replace the thoughts that are there already. In the background of our day is where our worries reside. It's where we carry anxiety and stress. Sometimes it is where we carry on imaginary conversations with others or “replay” past conversations like a song that we can't get out of our heads. This is when we turn those returning anxieties over to the God, asking God to heal us.

This is a great week to get in touch with our deepening desires and to let my conversations with Jesus grow in friendship. The easiest way to do this is to say simple ordinary things -- the very way I would say them to a close friend. Some examples might offer words that will inspire our own conversation with the Lord who loves us.

“Jesus, every time I hear you say I don't have to let my heart be troubled, I pause. I sense you are pointing to the 'troubles' I'm working through today. You're asking me to let go of them, aren't you? I'd like to, Jesus, but some of this is big stuff. It scares me. I know some of what I need to do, but I put it off. I know what I'm avoiding. It helps to focus on your love for me this week. I guess what I really need to ask you for today is that you help me to trust you more completely. It is really nice these days to feel that you are so close to me, and that I'm not alone today.”

“I haven't been very connected to you, Jesus. This conversation is difficult because it reminds me the embarrassing stuff I keep doing - and even now, I'm ashamed to talk about it in your presence. Please forgive me. Some of this I want to bring to the Sacrament of Reconciliation, so that I can be re-connected with you again. I need a 'turning point,' Jesus. Thank you for being there.”

“Good night, Jesus. Thank you for today. Let me put everything aside tonight. I know you will be with me all day tomorrow.”

Racing Toward Excellence: St. Mary Track Team Shines at Regional!

The St. Mary School Track Team wrapped up an incredible season with a strong showing at the regional tournament on Friday, May 9th. Competing in thirteen different events, our athletes displayed outstanding effort, sportsmanship, and Wildcard pride! From sprints to relays, long jumps to distance runs. Every student gave it their all. Coaches and families cheered as personal bests were shattered and teamwork took center stage. The students trained hard this season and their dedication was evident on the track. We are so proud of our track team-not just for their athletic achievements, but for the heart and perseverance they showed throughout the season. A big thank you goes out to our coaches, volunteers, and supportive parents who made this season possible. Go Wildcards! You've made us proud!

Last week, we said a heartfelt goodbye to our incredible Centralia High School intern, Eli. Pictured here with our 7th and 8th graders, Eli was an Absolute blessing to our classroom this year. During his time with us in pre-algebra and algebra, he consistently demonstrated kindness, knowledge, and strong leadership. His positive attitude and ability to connect with students made a lasting impact, and he quickly became a role model for our upper grades. As he moves on to college, we are so proud of him and excited for what lies ahead. Whoever has the honor of having Eli as a future math teacher will be incredibly lucky!
