FREEDOM

For you were called for freedom. But do not use this freedom as an opportunity for the flesh; rather, serve one another through love. For the whole law is fulfilled in one statement, namely "You shall love your neighbor as yourself." Galatians 5:13-14

LEARNING TO TRUST GOD'S CALL

Tyler's first year of seminary

Michael Spath | Photography by Tom Gennara
May, 2017

Seminarian Tyler Arens is like most Catholics. That's the first thing he wants you to understand. He always felt God calling out to him, but not in a "part the Red Sea, cast seven plagues" kind of way.

He attended the University of Michigan, took a job after graduation in 2008 in the Office of Financial Aid at Michigan State, bought a house, stocked it with cultural comforts and generally enjoyed his social life.

Tyler regularly attended Mass at St. Thomas Aquinas Parish in East Lansing, and was involved in a number of young adult groups, including i.d.9:16 (a group that exists to form young adults into intentional disciples of Jesus). He felt he was doing good work for the Lord within the societal norms expected of him. But something continued to pull at Tyler beyond his current ministry.

"As someone a little older, I'm 30 now, you have more attachments, more relationships that you build up over your career, but there has been something persistent working at me my entire life," Tyler says.

Was it the priesthood? The challenge for Tyler was deciphering God's message for him, but before he could fully interpret that message, he needed to make a few changes in his relationship with the Lord. "I wasn't at a place with God that I could really trust and know how he was calling me,"

"About two years ago, there was a pivot for me. I made the decision to be more intentional about my faith. That was a beginning for me of really striving for a deeper relationship with the Lord.

"I don't pretend that was easy. I know how daunting it can be, especially when you've been out in the world after college, and you've got friends, and a house, a car and the things you like – and that's why you must really ask for his intervention.

"The Lord gave me the grace to start changing the way I looked at my own life, and I was able to put him at the center of my life. Instead of focusing on what I would be giving up, he allowed me to see all I'd have to gain, even if it couldn't be fully understood yet.

"I think there's a myth that you have an 'A-ha' moment where you're hit on the head by lightning and you just know that you're supposed to be a priest or you're supposed to join the seminary, but it rarely happens that matter-of-factly," Tyler says.

"Never once did I feel any pressure – you have to be there of your own accord,"

Tyler grew closer and closer to God and to his final decision, but first he needed to cross one more hurdle – overcoming the fear of self-doubt.

"I think with millennials we want to be so sure we'll get it right, and we're afraid of taking risks sometimes," Tyler says. "We want to know how the end is going to look, but if you really focus in on Scripture, the Lord never said, 'This is how it's going to be, this is what to expect.' He basically kept coming back to 'trust, trust, trust. Trust me.'"

"That describes my discernment in a nutshell, which is that I had to grow to a place of trust with him to ask the question, 'How are you calling me?' Then, I needed to be in a position to say yes. So it comes down to this: be not afraid. Those are the words St. John Paul opened his pontificate with, and they appear so frequently in the Bible.

"No matter what challenge we're facing in life, no matter what question we are asking and being asked by the Lord, if we trust in him, we will not allow fear to hold us back."

Tyler is presently in his first year of seminary, learning to become a priest, but also learning more succinctly what it means to be a true disciple of and partner with Christ.

"I think people have this idea of seminary being all these guys who have everything already figured out, and if you come into the seminary with that mind-set, that's going to be quickly corrected," Tyler says. "The end result may be ordination, but it's that focus on your relationship with the Lord that comes first, because it's truly through that relationship and understanding his voice better in your life that you can minister to others like he is calling each of us to do in some fashion."

MOTHER LUPITA – PATRON SAINT OF NURSES

Feast Day: June 24

Saint Maria Guadalupe Garcia Zavala, known as Mother Lupita, embraced a life of poverty while serving the poor and sick during a dangerous time in Mexico's history.

Born in Mexico in 1878 into a family that ran a religious goods shop, Maria frequently visited the basilica next door to the shop, even at a young age. At 23, Maria told her spiritual director, Father Cipriano Iniguez, that she was no longer going to get married; instead she felt a strong calling to serve Jesus with an undivided heart by serving the poor and sick. Father Cipriano told Maria, in turn, of his desire to form a congregation that would care for the hospitalized. Maria broke off her engagement, and the two joined together to found an order of caregivers, The Handmaids of St. Margaret Mary and the Poor.

Serving as a nurse when the congregation began in 1901, Maria cared for patients regardless of their wealth or status. As the superior general of her order, she provided an example of genuine joy in embracing poverty, often begging in the streets for funds for the hospital when needed. She sincerely believed that one can only truly be "poor with the poor" by loving and living in poverty.

When the Catholic Church in Mexico underwent persecution beginning in 1911, Maria often put her own life at risk by hiding priests, including the Archbishop of Guadalajara, in her hospital. Maria served as the superior general of her order until her death in 1963. Her congregation now has 22 houses in Mexico, Peru, Iceland and other countries.

Canonized by Pope Francis on May 12, 2013, Maria becomes Mexico's second female saint. At her canonization Mass, the Holy Father said, "This new Mexican saint invites us to love as Jesus loved us ... to come out of ourselves and care for those who are in need of attention, understanding and help, to bring them the warm closeness of God's love through tangible actions of sensitivity, of sincere affection and of love."

Saint Maria Goretti

FEAST DAY — JULY 6

On 6 July 1902, Maria Goretti died in the hospital at Nettuno, brutally stabbed the day before in the village of Le Ferriere, in the Pontine Marshes. Her spiritual life, the strength of her faith, her ability to forgive her murderer have placed her among the best-loved saints of the 20th century. St Maria Goretti was a girl whom God's Spirit endowed with the courage to stay faithful to her Christian vocation even to the point of making the supreme sacrifice of her life. Her tender age, her lack of education and the poverty of the environment in which she lived did not prevent grace from working its miracles in her. Indeed, it was precisely in these conditions that God's special love for the lowly appeared. We are reminded of the words with which Jesus blesses the heavenly Father for revealing himself to children and the simple, rather than to the wise and learned of the world.

— Saint Pope John Paul II, on the centenary of the death of St. Maria Goretti.
