"But because he wished to justify himself, he said to Jesus, 'And who is my neighbor?'"
Luke 10:29

Jesus answers this question by telling the story of the Good Samaritan. His answer was, "the one who treated him with mercy." A steward makes every effort to feel what one in need is feeling and then acts accordingly. Like the Good Samaritan, a steward must act on his compassion.

Breaking Open God's Word: Fifteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

There would have been many reasonable excuses to hurry past a severely injured person on the crime-ridden road from Jerusalem to Jericho. The priest and Levite likely used their need to maintain ritual purity as an excuse. Touching a corpse would have left them unable to fulfill the duty they were undoubtedly rushing to do. Others may have reasoned that it was the responsibility of the Roman authorities. A Samaritan could have rationalized that a kinsman of the victim should be the one to help. Certainly, no one thought it wise to spend any more time than necessary on this dangerous road, especially since apparently there were criminals in the area. But for this Samaritan, his heart won out over his head.
