Our Liturgy Team

You have likely heard someone on the pastoral staff or our priest-presiders reiterate the definition of liturgy as “the work of the people,” but what exactly does this mean? Fundamentally it means that every one of us gathered at Mass are united in our work at prayer everytime we gather for worship. Practically, this means that there is an entire team helping to support and enliven every aspect of our liturgy together at St. Ignatius. This week, meet one group who support liturgy in the area of Music Ministry: the professional musicians who sing weekend liturgies, funerals, weddings, holy days, Christmas and Easter (come rain or shine!) at St. Ignatius. They are fun, kind, fabulous musicians, and help to elevate our sung prayer. Below they share with us their favorite choral work, and some of the things they love about singing in a parish music program.

C.A. Jordan, Soprano

Favorite Choral work:
“Requiem,” G. Verdi

I enjoy singing with the parish choir at St. Ignatius because there is a collective spirit and drive to make high quality music. There is often a moment of clarity that happens when a piece jells, and everyone feeling that moment together is palpable, and rewarding.

Cara Gabrielson, Soprano

Favorite Choral work:
Old favorite, “Messiah,” G.F. Handel
New favorite: “Consent,” Ted Hearne

As a professional vocalist I enjoy collaborating with many different people. Community chorus is full of heart and members have a deep love and respect for what brings us together, music.

Sonia Garaieff, Mezzo/Alto

Favorite choral work:
"Requiem," W.A. Mozart

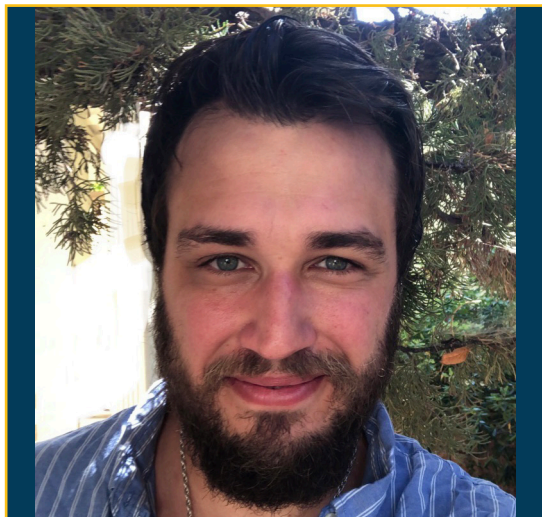

"I love singing with the parish choir because I enjoy the collaboration and camaraderie, especially after missing it during the peak of the pandemic. I've sung with lots of choirs over the years, but I feel truly at home as part of the choir at St. Ignatius."

Jocelyn Lambert, Soprano

Favorite Choral Work: "O Magnum Mysterium," Morten Lauridsen

"I greatly enjoy singing with parish choirs because it's such a beautiful community of passionate musicians, and making music with the St. Ignatius team is a truly transformative experience!"

Nick Volkert, Baritone

Favorite Choral Work: "Daphnis et Chloé," M. Ravel

"The Parish choir brings so much warmth, verve, and joy to the act of singing; which is the whole point!"

Daniel Morrison, Tenor

Favorite Choral Work:
"Hymn to St Cecilia," Benjamin Britten

"I've sung with chapel and parish choirs since college; I love the sense of community, and I get the chance to perform works that other types of choirs don't often sing."
