Today's Gospel Reflection

First Reading: Acts 14:21-27

Second Reading: Revelation 21:1-5a

Gospel: John 13:31-33a, 34-35

We all nurse a secret dream of glory.

We daydream that in some way we will stand out and be recognized. And so we fantasize about great achievements that will set us apart from others and make us famous. The daydreams vary but, inside them, always we are at the center—the most admired person in the room, the one scoring the winning goal, the ballerina star, the actor picking up the Academy Award, the author writing the best-seller, the intellectual winning the Nobel Prize, or even just the one in the circle who tells the best story. What we are chasing in all this is notice, appreciation, uniqueness, and adulation so that we can be duly recognized and loved. We want the light to be shining on us.

And this isn't all bad or unhealthy. We are built to stand in the spotlight. And so it is not a big secret that each of us feels ourselves at the center and wants to be recognized as being there. We nurse a secret dream of glory and, partly, this is healthy.

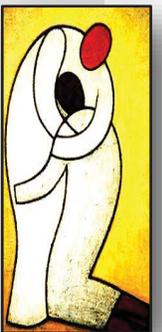

What's less healthy in our daydreams is how we envision that glory. In our fantasies, glory almost always consists in being famous, in standing out, in achieving a success that makes others envious, in somehow being the best-looking or the brightest or the most talented person in the room. In our fantasy, glory means having the power to be set above others, even if that is for a good motive. For instance, some of our fantasies are daydreams of goodness, of being powerful enough to squash evil.

But with a subtlety that's easy to miss, the Gospels teach a very different lesson: On the cross, Jesus proves that He is powerful beyond measure, not by doing some spectacular physical act that leaves everyone around him helpless to make any protest, but in a spectacular act of the heart wherein He forgives those who are mocking and killing him. Divine kingship is manifest in forgiveness, not in muscle.

That is real glory, and that is the one thing of which we really should be envious, namely, the compassion and forgiveness that Jesus manifested in the face of jealousy, hatred, and murder.

Jesus defines glory very differently than we do. Real glory, for Him, is not the glory of winning a gold medal, of being a champion, or of being an object of envy because of our looks or our achievements. Glory consists in being deep in compassion, forgiveness, and graciousness—and these are not often spawned by worldly success, by being better-looking, brighter, richer, or better muscled than those around us.

We all nurse the secret dream of glory, a sign that we are emotionally well. However, this is something that needs to grow and mature inside of us. Our secret dream of glory is meant to mature so that eventually we will begin to envision ourselves as standing out, not by talent, looks, muscles, and speed, but by the depth of our compassion and the quality of our forgiveness.

Fifth Sunday of Easter

"I gave you a new commandment love one another. As I have loved you, so you also should love one another."

—JOHN 13:34

"As I have loved you," this is the hard part—Jesus' love is unconditional, our love usually comes with strings attached. It is easy to love someone when they love you back. But it takes mercy and compassion to love someone when you feel unappreciated, feel used or feel like your opinion doesn't matter. It takes courage and the grace of God to "love my neighbor" when they may be someone you don't like, someone you don't know or someone that doesn't look like you.

Edition #70

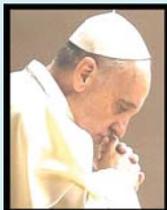

How does one measure being "blessed?" It's something you can't buy or invent, it's an inner state of well-being. How deeply connected you are with God, how you experience the full impact of God's presence in your life determines how blessed you are. Some people believe that being blessed means having a lot of material possessions. Au contraire! Being blessed has very little to do with wealth or power but more on how we are INSIDE. Such material obsessions can never bring genuine happiness or satisfaction. True fulfillment can only be found in a relationship with God. Being blessed means that God has looked down upon you with favor and mercy. He's looked past all your faults and mistakes and loved you anyway. Yes, God can bless us with material things, but He cares more about our spirit and heart. Be aware that God can give blessings, but He can also take them away. When we receive our blessings, it's best to remain humble and grateful because God can easily propel us back wheresoever. Being blessed isn't about what you have, but who you are inside, and how God values what you have within and decides to righteously reward your actions.

WHAT'S NEW?

Everyone gets a bit excited with the prospect of something new, whether it's a new job, a new car, or a new iPhone. This new thing might simply be a replacement. However, when it is a new model, an upgrade, we even get more excited. Revelation uses a distinctive Greek word, kainos, for this second kind of newness. The new heaven, the new earth, the new Jerusalem (and the new commandment mentioned in the Gospel) suggest radical newness—the kind resulting from an act of God. Centuries earlier, the prophet Isaiah had promised a new heaven and a new earth (see Isaiah 65:17). This metaphor pointed to a time of eschatological peace and fulfillment, a time when the covenant relationship between God and the people would be renewed and last forever. This was a promise the people held dear. How are we to read this passage from Revelation today? Is it referring to a time in this life? Or, after this life? It may actually refer to both. We believe that, with His death and resurrection, Jesus inaugurated this time of fulfillment. However, its full establishment is not yet complete, hence the new commandment: "Love one another" (John 13:34). When we truly follow this commandment and love each other, we actually make present the new heaven and new earth; we make real the new Jerusalem, God's covenant partner. However, the ultimate fulfillment will come when God finally brings all things to completion. That is when everything will be new.

—Sr. Dianne Bergant, CSA

Reflection:

- ⇒ How was the love of other people made you a better person?
- ⇒ In what ways does your love of others strengthen them?

[Jesus said,] "As I have loved you, so you also should love one another. This is how all will know that you are my disciples.

—JOHN 13:34-35

Dear Padre,

My aunt tells her husband he shouldn't watch a certain TV show. She says it's an "occasion of sin." What is that?

Occasions of sin are people, places, or situations that can easily lead a person to sin or give the individual an opportunity to commit a sin. There are two types: remote and proximate (or "near"). If the attraction is not strong or has only a small probability of leading to sin, the occasion is remote. Remote occasions of sin are always around us, and we have no obligation to try to avoid them. If the attraction is powerful or the probability of its leading to sin is great, the occasion is called proximate. Saint Alphonsus suggested that if a person sins four out of ten times in a particular situation, that situation should be regarded as a proximate occasion of sin. Proximate or near occasions of sin are further classified as necessary or voluntary. A necessary proximate occasion cannot be avoided or can be avoided only with great difficulty—for example, an occasion associated with doing one's job or being in prison. A voluntary proximate occasion is freely and voluntarily entered. We must avoid voluntary proximate occasions of grave sin. Among the many means at our disposal for avoiding occasions of sin, the sacraments of reconciliation and Eucharist have pride of place. Prayer and self-discipline also help.

This movie offers insights to just how horrific abortion is and the lasting, devastating affects it has to women, men and families. Please note that the movie contains a few, very graphic scenes.....see movie review below. Showing is at the DOLE CANNERY, on MONDAY, MAY 16 at 7pm, and Maui Megaplex on May 16 & 17. <https://www.movieguide.org/reviews/the-matter-of-life.html>

"Inspiring Documentary about the Reality and Evils of Abortion"

THE MATTER OF LIFE is a documentary that opens the viewers' minds to question what they think they about abortion. The documentary is informative and filled with fascinating testimonies and interviews of authors and pro-life advocates. They ask big questions that make the audience think, such as: are the unborn like one of us, does every person have the right to life? The movie features real life testimonies of gynecologists who explain different abortion procedures. It explains the history of abortion, including the history of Planned Parenthood and the Roe vs. Wade case. Included is actual footage from aborted fetuses in the early weeks of pregnancy.

THE MATTER OF LIFE does a good job weaving the history of abortion with recent interviews of people from Planned Parenthood and activists who publicly support abortion as well as people who don't. The use of color enhances the movie, with black and white photos of the people behind legalizing abortion. THE MATTER OF LIFE has a strong Christian worldview, with Bible verses and moral discussions. MOVIEGUIDE® advises extreme caution for the gruesome abortion images and adult discussion in THE MATTER OF LIFE.

Dominant Worldview and Other Worldview Content/Elements: Strong Christian, biblical worldview shows that the killing of innocent preborn children is wrong, but movie also gives moral, emotional and scientific reasons, which Non-Christians will find refreshing.

Foul Language: No obscenities, but there are some light profanities and mockery of God from pro-abortion people.

Violence: Some gruesome depictions of aborted babies, a description of a rape, a scene with a gynecologist performing an abortion, and woman throws an abortion sign into a pool.

Sex: Light level of sex includes several explanations of sex from the science of embryology as well as a description of a rape.

Nudity: No nudity, but some female cleavage and a cartoon image of a woman's uterus.

Alcohol Use: No alcohol use.

Smoking and/or Drug Use and Abuse: No smoking or drugs.

Miscellaneous Immorality: Strong miscellaneous immorality and behavior/worldview problems.

More Detail:

In THE MATTER OF LIFE, Writer/Director Tracy Robinson looks at the issue of abortion from both the pro-life and pro-abortion perspectives. Robinson begins by giving startling statistics that one in seven women who've had an abortion were church goers, and the hope that women who have had one will be treated with compassion and empathy from their fellow church attenders. She then asks a fundamental question that every viewer must answer. Does every person have an equal right to life?

Scott Klusendorf, CEO of Life Training Institute, is interviewed. He states no one is talking about the real idea that intentionally killing an innocent human being is wrong. He addresses the issue of blaming Christians for the problems in the world today. Alan Shlemon, author of STAND TO REASON, is also interviewed. He boils the topic down to the essential issue of whether or not the fetus or preborn baby is a human being or not. He makes an interesting statement: "If the unborn is not a human being, no justification for abortion is necessary. If the unborn is a human being, no justification for abortion is adequate."

Examining the science of embryology, they then ask, "Is it ok for people who are older to kill those that are younger?" Stephanie Gray Connors, author of LOVE UNLEASHES LIFE, says that life begins at fertilization and reinforces her point with animal species like dogs and horses.

The movie then segues into the history of abortion, as well as the forerunners who propelled the legalization of abortion into law. It wasn't until Playboy magazine came out, the first magazine that advocated for abortions on demand. By 1968, abortions were decriminalized in Colorado and California. Then, in 1970, New York made abortion legal. Finally, in 1973, the Supreme Court legalized abortion in Roe v. Wade decision.

THE MATTER OF LIFE also brings to light a lesser known Supreme Court decision, Doe v. Bolton. This decision broadened the definition of the word "health," meaning a woman could use it to justify an abortion, when abortions were only to be performed when a woman's health was at risk.

The movie also highlights the career of Dr. Bernard Nathanson, a physician who was at the forefront of the Roe v. Wade decision, only to become a pro-life advocate later in life. It also discusses the notorious eugenics and abortion activist, Margaret Sanger. Sanger made it her life's mission to rid the world of children defined as feeble-minded or special needs. She wanted abortion to be the backup for people who couldn't use birth control and started the first birth control center, later renamed Planned Parenthood, which now does 877 abortions a day, or one murdered baby every 97 seconds.

The documentary does a great job interspersing footage of news reports and interviews from years ago and footage of current interviews of advocates who are working to stop abortion. The cinematography effectively uses camera angles and facts to inform the audience about abortion laws, Planned Parenthood's role in women's healthcare, and teens and pregnancy. Its use of color highlights the forerunners of abortion in black and white and more recent abortion advocates in color. Tracy Robinson gives the facts about abortion in a refreshing way that informs viewers regarding its history as well as the consequences the prevalence of abortion will have on our world's future.

It then explains the four barriers to abortions, Christians, parents, crisis pregnancy centers, and abortion workers. It highlights pro-life organizations such as Embrace Grace and Human Coalition to equip women and churches with the tools to walk with a woman through every step of her pregnancy. It ends with a heart-wrenching testimony from a gynecologist who performed abortions, then, through a tragic event, no longer performs them. He declares with certainty that killing innocent humans is wrong no matter how big or small they are and hopes no one has to experience the events he did to get them to see that.

The movie has an overarching Christian worldview. Although they provide perspectives from advocates who are atheists, the movie portrays life from a Christian standpoint and uses biblical references to support its claims. Having said this, this is one of the better documentaries that offers viewpoints from those who take a pro-life stance who are not Christians. It also offers resources for those who may believe abortion is the only option in situations like rape, as well as practical steps viewers can take to help end abortion.

All that said, THE MATTER OF LIFE is a movie where parents and Christians need to exercise caution. There are several scenes describing sexual content from a scientific perspective. There is also a description of rape, as well as cartoon scenes of women's uterus and the actual abortion process. There are also some gruesome images of aborted fetuses. The movie discusses some other underlying moral issues such as greed, lust and exploitation. Because of these issues, parents should exercise extreme caution. No children under the age of 15 or 16 should watch THE MATTER OF LIFE.
