Gratitude the Basic Virtue

There's a Jewish folk-tale which runs something like this:

There once was a young man who aspired to great holiness. After some time at working to achieve it, he went to see his Rabbi.

"Rabbi, I think I have achieved sanctity."

"Why do you think that?" asked the Rabbi. "Well," responded the young man, "I've been practicing virtue and discipline for some time now and I have grown quite proficient at them. From the time the sun rises until it sets, I take no food or water. All day long I do all kinds of hard work for others and I never expect to be thanked. If I have temptations of the flesh, I roll in the snow or in thorn bushes until they go away, and then at night, before bed, I practice the ancient monastic discipline and administer lashes to my bare back. I have disciplined myself so as to become holy."

The Rabbi was silent for a time. Then he took the young man by the arm and led him to a window and pointed to an old horse which was just being led away by its master.

"I have been observing that horse for some time," the Rabbi said, "and I've noticed that it doesn't get fed or watered from morning to night. All day long it has to do work for people and it never gets thanked. I often see it rolling around in snow or in bushes, as horses are prone to do, and frequently, I see it get whipped. But I ask you, Is that a saint or a horse?"

This is a good parable because it shows how simplistic it is to simply identify sanctity and virtue with self-renunciation and the capacity to do what's difficult. In popular thought there's a common spiritual equation: saint = horse. What's more difficult is always better. But that can be wrong. To be a saint is to be motivated by gratitude, nothing more and nothing less.

To receive in gratitude, to be properly grateful, is the most primary of all religious attitudes. Proper gratitude is ultimate virtue. It defines sanctity. Saints, holy persons, are people who are grateful, people who see and receive everything as a gift. The converse is also true. Anyone who takes life and love for granted should not ever be confused with a saint.

REGISTRATION CLOSED! CLASSES ALREADY ONGOING.

GIVE A GIFT TO YOUR DEPARTED LOVED ONES

From November 1 through November 8, a plenary indulgence is granted to the Christian faithful who devoutly visits a cemetery and pray, if only mentally, for the departed souls in Purgatory. The plenary indulgence is applicable only to the souls in Purgatory and can be gained on each one of these days. These holy souls can also help us; may they intercede for peace in Israel, in our hearts and in the whole world.

*Eternal rest grant to them, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon them.
May the souls of the faithful departed, through the mercy of God, rest in peace, Amen.*

Everything that we have is a gift that we are to use to help others.

The Thirty-First Sunday in Ordinary Time

"Whoever exalts himself will be humbled; but whoever humbles himself will be exalted."

—Matthew 23:12

The world celebrates people in the spotlight and those who have the most of everything. We think celebrity, money, and possessions is the key to happiness. Yet, without Stewardship, our world is filled with loneliness, anxiety and depression. The key to a happy life is relationship. Relationship with God and each other. Trust in the foundation of any good relationship and humility is the seed of trust.

LET'S TAKE A MOMENT... By Tere Hunt

Edition #41

While clearing an undisturbed area of our dining room, I stumbled upon an antiquated basket which yielded a sheaf of papers bound together by an overly rusted paper clip, stashed untouched some 20 years back! I was delightfully amused with my lucky find—it was an ambitious bucket list written eons ago by yours truly, intended to reveal if I somehow successfully fulfilled the registry ... in the 21st century! A lot of the entries seemed silly when first written at a whim. "Make a birdie!" Aha—a penultimate dream I have surpassed since I've had a hole in one! Alas, only one (sigh). A quick survey down the wretched list and every task requires performing at a remarkable pace, consistent with a work horse or robot! What was I thinking. When you reach your senior years, you still desire to continue the rate of activity you had trained but the body refuses to follow your bid, your health not as exceptional as it once was, you even scramble to keep a normal snail's pace. When your body starts to change or decline with age, it can be hard to "grin and bear it," or maintain a smile on your wrinkled face! YET despite the struggles that are part and parcel with getting older, there is a great deal of good that comes with aging! You certainly have a great deal of experience and knowledge to offer. You are rewarded with time to dedicate to other hobbies and new activities. You have developed reserves of patience (hah!) Don't be confined to being a grandparent or wise elder. You can still dream, experience, pursue ambitions and even try a new sport—just be careful. Take time to pause and recapture that childlike sense of wonder rather than hurry to extinction. Don't let age be an excuse for not making a change for the better. It is never too late to make a change. Laugh at those insignificant embarrassing indignities. Accentuate each day as a blessing. Be grateful you managed so many good years that you can still continue making warm memories. Don't ever let age define how you live your life. Let that young-at-heart rule and LIVE!

A CHURCH ON THE WAY

In July 2013, as part of a visit to Brazil, Pope Francis met with the Latin American conference of bishops. Speaking informally, bishop to bishops, he said, “At times we lose people because they don’t understand what we are saying, because we have forgotten the language of simplicity and impart an intellectualism foreign to our people.”

I thought about how his words could be applied in my parish, so one Sunday, I asked the people in the pews what they looked for from the Church. I was impressed and touched by their answers: wisdom to make their way through life; where and how to find God; a desire to be treated like adults; compassion for themselves and for others; guidance to reach out to the needy in society; a link between faith and life; a place to find some peace and quiet; wisdom for the political process. It was a list by which we who lead need to examine our consciences.

The charge from Pope Francis is to be a Church that speaks to people where they are with the words of everyday life. We look for wisdom that enables us to become our best selves. And that is what healthy religion is about: to guide rather than to control; to inspire rather than to shame; to participate fully rather than to simply “pray, pay, and obey.”

— Fr. Joseph Juknialis

Reflect

What have you found in the Church and what more do you long for?

[Jesus said,] “Do and observe all things whatsoever they tell you, but do not follow their example. For they preach but they do not practice.” —Matt 23:3

Dear Padre

I would like to do more spiritual reading, but everything I’ve tried is either over my head or too sweet and pious for me. Do you have suggestions for any down-to-earth authors?

You might try reading shorter works. More is no necessarily better. Consider several publications available at Liguori.org. In My Own Words is a series of books that gathers excerpts from different authors: Dorothy Day, Sr., Thea Bowman, Pope St. John Paul II, and others. Also consider the Wisdom series for Advent and Christmas or Lent and Easter. These include the writings of ancients and a few more current authors like Pope Francis, Henri Nouwen, and Thomas Merton. Daybreaks for Advent and Lent are booklets of short meditations for each day of each season. Catholic Update, a four-page newsletter from Liguori, features in-depth articles on contemporary topics written by expert authors.

C.S. Lewis as a prolific and popular Christian author. His Mere Christianity is practical and informative. A Grief Observed is a beautiful meditation for those who have lost someone dear to them, as is Henri Nouwen’s In Memoriam. Merton’s New Seeds of Contemplation has inspired readers since it was first published in 1949.

Finally, the best place to start might be the Gospel of Mark—not to study or analyze. Rather, read it just to get to know Jesus a little better.

The Thirty-First Sunday

In Ordinary Time

On Sunday, October 29, 2023, St. Jude's Feast Day was notably celebrated with an outpouring of attendance from parishioners, friends, families, visitors and clergy. Noteworthy were the presence of Fr. Peter Miti (Pastor) and Dcn. Jose Ancheta (2013 St. Jude deacon) both from Resurrection of the Lord Catholic Church who graced our event.

And as has been Fr. Khanh's tradition, the Lion Dance broke the festivity ushering good fortune. The humidity did not deter us from enjoying the food, games, raffle, music and dance prepared for everyone. We thank Nadine Marchan-Wheeler and her Woodrose band for keeping us upbeat. The Knights' burgers and hot dogs were a hit! Potluck galore significantly satisfied the overwhelming crowd.

This was also the first official day that we got to utilize the newly renovated-newly painted kitchen, fully operational mere overnight, furnished with new cabinets, appliances, fixtures and a mobile butcherblock island to boot! To the sleepless efforts of the Knight(s) and the team who engineered this transformation, we are ever grateful!

Many many thanks to the efforts of tireless volunteers and ministry members who accomplished the feast day celebration seamlessly. Such a joy to get together with loyal families of God and finding time to grace a momentous event heralded for all. Next year in February 2024, we will be celebrating our 25 years of service to the community and will no doubt present an even bigger festivity already in the works.

Calling children ages 6 and above!

We are inviting children to sing at the 11:00am Sunday Masses!

Interested families can bring their children at our practice date which is usually the 1st Thursday of the month. However, because the All Souls Day Mass falls on that Thursday, practice is moved to next Thursday, Nov. 9th from 5:30pm to 7:30pm in our worship area. We will continue to hold rehearsals every first Thursday of the month.

For particulars, contact our Children's Choir Coordinator, Cecily Best, at (808) 469-1245.

SAY "Amen!"

The proper form when receiving Communion is to reply "Amen" after the Eucharistic minister raises the Host or Chalice and pronounces it, "The Body (or Blood) of Christ." By responding this way, you openly state your belief in the presence of Christ in the Eucharistic bread and wine as well as in His Body, the Church.
