This is our story, our family. As Catholics, we are the inheritors of holy men and women who over two thousand years built a great civilization and spread the gospel throughout the world. The history of the Church is not just the recitation of popes and saints; it is a story of adventure, intrigue, rebellion, reform, and devotion.

Hey Deacon!

Can a Catholic (or any Christian) be baptized more than once?

On one hand, this sounds like a strange question, but on the other, we will find there are many people who have been baptized more than once—in some cases many times. My Lutheran sister-in-law recently joined a Baptist church and was encouraged by the pastor that she be baptized again. So, is being re-baptized ever warranted based on the scriptures?

The Catholic tradition and many other Christian denominations stand united on Ephesians 4:4-6, which says: “There is one body and one Spirit, just as you were called to the one hope of your calling, one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, who is above all and through all and in all.” So, once baptism (water in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit) happens, it’s a once-and-for-all kind of thing. If you move to a different part of the country or even switch to a different denomination or convert to Catholicism, your Trinitarian baptism counts.

However, in some Christian denominations, the practice of infant baptism (Catholic tradition) is not considered sufficient because they believe in what’s called “believer’s baptism.” A believer’s baptism requires the person being baptized to say, “I believe in that.” An infant can’t express that belief, so a person would need to be baptized in that specific tradition. This is sometimes referred to as “re-baptism,” although that’s a bit of a misnomer because in a way these Christian denominations do not consider whatever previous baptism to have been valid.

The Church teaches that there is one baptism because there is only one person, our Lord Jesus Christ, who was capable of atoning for the sins of mankind, something a mere man could not do. Baptism applies the merits of Christ’s one Sacrifice of Calvary, his Paschal Mystery (CCC 1085), so that we can be forgiven of our sins and become temples of the Holy Spirit (CCC 1262).

Baptism consequently makes us one in Christ (1 Cor. 12:12-26), whereas a number of baptisms would suggest disunity among God’s people. Baptism is a sacrament that speaks of the reality that the Christian life has a beginning. In baptism, you pass from death to life.

The Sacrament of Baptism marks that reality in a profound way for Christians. To say that you could be baptized again and again would imply that you could pass from death to life again and again, which is not at all what we believe. So, the singularity of baptism as the sacrament of the beginning of the Christian life needs to be carefully preserved.

As Catholics, we believe that “Baptism imprints on the soul an indelible spiritual sign, which consecrates the baptized person as belonging to Christ. Because of this, Baptism cannot be repeated.” (CCC 1272 and 1280).

In summary, there is no double-dipping when it comes to baptism.

OLL Healing Bereavement Ministry

The goal of this group is to discover that you are not alone. To listen and talk with others, to find a safe place to say your loved one's name with less sorrow.

"Our goal is never to "get over" our grief. We get over a cold, but we get through grief. We learn to adapt to a new environment in which our loved one is not physically with us. We learn to integrate what this loss means to us. We gradually learn to move forward, with an understanding that we can be more, despite having less." From Grieving with Great Hope

The group meets on Tuesdays at 1:00 pm in the lower level of the church. If you need additional information, the next gathering date or would like to know more, please call the parish office at 417-334-2928 with your contact information and Joyce Arnold will call you. ROMAN CATHOLIC
SPRINGFIELD-CAPE GIRARDEAU

Office of the Bishop

Dear Monsignors, Fathers, and Deacons, and Religious Sisters,

At the passing of Pope Emeritus Benedict XVI, our sadness gives way to gratitude for his years of service to the Church. From his days as a parish priest to his election to the Papacy, he truly had a shepherd's heart, challenging the Church and the world to greater love, truth, hope, and mercy.

The clergy, religious, and laity of the diocese are invited to a Memorial Mass on Friday, January 6, at 6:30 p.m., in St. Mary of the Annunciation Cathedral, Cape Girardeau, MO. The clergy, religious, and laity of the diocese are invited to another Memorial Mass on Monday, January 9, at 5:30 p.m., in St. Agnes Cathedral, Springfield, MO.

In a world where people question the meaning and purpose of life, Pope Benedict XVI offered the following words: "We are not some casual and meaningless product of evolution. Each of us is the result of a thought of God. Each of us is willed, each of us is loved, each of us is necessary." With those words he highlighted the importance and the value of each person. But he did not stop there. He recognized the corresponding responsibility to the neighbor: "The closer a person is to God, the closer he is to people." In his vision of faith he saw the potential of what the human family and the Church could be.

In his final years, Pope Benedict, inspired all of us through his example of a simple life of prayer. He called us all to "Praise and give thanks: only in this way is our prayer complete." May he now know the fullness of that prayer as he sees God face-to-face.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Most Reverend Edward M. Rice
Bishop of Springfield-Cape Girardeau

A prayer for the soul of Pope Emeritus Benedict XVI:

Father, eternal shepherd,
hear the prayers of your people
for your servant Benedict,
Who governed your church with love.
May your son welcome him into eternal glory. Amen.
Eternal rest grant unto him O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon him.
May he rest in peace, Amen.

FAMILY BIBLE CHALLENGE

Encounter Scripture • Encounter Christ

We welcome you to our adventure and hope you enjoy the weekly reflections and quizzes.

FamilyBibleChallenge.org

What's the challenge?

There are four seasons of the FBC each year. Each Sunday, families will receive an email identifying a new passage to read together as a family, reflect upon, and discuss. A new quiz arrives on Thursday. You just have to make the time.

The "challenge" is to engage your family with Sacred Scripture. There is no contest. There are no rules. There is, however, the great benefit of falling in love with Jesus through the power of the Good News found in the Bible.

The videos are provided through a partnership with The Bible Project. The reflection and trivia questions are the work of generous volunteers and the staff of The Institute for Catholic Formation of the Diocese of Bridgeport. Our diocese has accepted the invitation to participate in this project.

Protecting God's Children for Adults

It's All About the Behavior By Crispin Ketelhut Montelione

You may be familiar with this core message of the Protecting God's Children® Program: it's all about the behavior. There is a reason this statement is repeated throughout the program—it's an important one, and can take some explaining.

Research tells us abuse occurs in every demographic, which means that anyone could conceivably abuse a child or youth.^{1,2} Many times, people have made assumptions on the safety of an individual by fixating on specific elements to determine their "safety meter," such as the person's marital situation, whether or not the person identifies or behaves as heterosexual vs. homosexual, or whether someone might look like a "creepy" person, if they have their own kids, etc. Time and again, safe adults in our VIRTUS sessions assume that if they are regularly checking the online sex offender registry lists and keeping an extra watch on specific houses and telling the youth to avoid others, then the children in their environments are automatically safe.

Though the latter example might provide some level of protection based on known risk, this overarching way of thinking could inadvertently increase the risk for abuse to occur because it causes adults to have blinders on when it comes to anyone who doesn't fit into those particular "boxes"—which could result in missing other possible situations of abuse or inappropriate behavior.

In our efforts to protect children and the vulnerable, we must be vigilant to the warning signs of inappropriate behavior and recognize that there isn't any one demographic "failsafe" such as age, race, gender, sexual orientation, physical aspects, cultural background, family status, occupation, income, level of education, etc., that will protect children from being abused. Abusers come from every demographic. Victims and survivors also come from every demographic.^{3,4}

As such, we apply the standards of safety to everyone. Even so, sometimes caring adults assume that if people seem to be upstanding citizens within a community, and if they appear to be trustworthy, then it increases the person's "safety meter." As a result, the caring adult is more lenient when that person exhibits inappropriate behavior, finding excuses, justifying the behavior or rationalizing it away. This is a challenge because we also know that there is such a thing as community grooming, where abusers become to the community exactly what is needed, and they help to further positions of authority for themselves so that people will perceive them to be trustworthy. Generally, this results in the community believing that the abuser has special insight toward children, increasing the trust toward the abuser, and decreasing the chance that a child will disclose the abuse and be believed.^{5,6}
