

I witnessed the hand of God at work in the life of a dear friend of mine who has been struggling of late, and has no family anywhere near her.

I and a couple of other friends of hers have been praying hard for literally years, but even harder in recent months that she could be reunited with her family from out of state.

Well last month our dreams and prayers were answered. Her sister is here for two months, helping her to pack and to get her affairs in order, after which our dear friend will be moving to be with her family.

I will miss her dearly, and I'm certainly not the only one. But in the big picture, I know that her family will take care of her better than I and a few friends ever possibly could.

We called, and He answered in a big way!
All thanks and praises to you, God!
