Dear Parishioners,

I hope and pray that you all are having a good and holy Lent. As we continue walking with Jesus and as we enter the last week before Holy Week, it is with great joy that I update you on what has been happening regarding Building Our Future Together (BOFT). When I wrote to you in January 2023, I shared my decision, made with parishioners' sound advice, to embrace St. Clare's School and support it as part of our parish mission.

Under the guidance of the Pastoral Council and with participation of the Finance Council, we formed a BOFT committee, charged with exploring options of how to best support St. Clare's School. BOFT Committee members are Rosemary Evans, Vern Howard, Debbie Larson, Madison Lorenzo, Scott Perry, and Tony Schweiss.

The BOFT Committee, meeting bi-weekly and sometimes weekly, met with the Diocese to ensure their support and requirements, then looked at many options to give the school the space it needs, while ensuring room for large parish gatherings and possible other uses. Ideas included in their discussions and research included but were not limited to expanding the current structure, building in the back parking lot, reconfiguring the parish hall and offices/classroom space, and building across the street on Kelly Drive.

Based mainly on coverage and building restrictions, the BOFT Committee recommended to the Pastoral Council and me that we erect a new building on Kelly Drive. We have no details at this point, except that it would be a multi-use space and would include a commercial kitchen.

Next steps include our new Design Committee selecting and working with an architect to create the best option to serve our current and future needs. People on the design committee are Andy Larson, Madison Lorenzo, Jill Mulcahy, Alex Roodhouse, and me.

I am sure you have witnessed growth in our community since my previous letter. You can't help but notice at Sunday Masses that more young families attend. I know I'm not the only one that finds this comforting as we consider the future viability of our parish, especially now that we're rounding the corner of our 60th anniversary! I believe our growth is thanks to your good testimony and God's grace that keeps sending us people. I know you all welcome them and integrate them into our parish family. This is how we will continue to faithfully build our future together as so many people in the past have planned for the beauty and function of our present space.

In closing, I invite all of you to continue praying for our future, for our children, our youth, our young families, our elderly, and for those that worked very hard in the past and have gone back to the Father's House.

With love and prayers,

Rev. Jorge Herrera, Pastor

Please return applications to that same email address by May 9, 2025.

Project Dresser Update: 4/2/2025

Due to financial problems, Real Choices in Fernley, NV had to close it's doors but continues to operate in Reno, NV on Haskell St. Treion Dally who was in charge of the Fernley location, also continues her work to help mothers and families in need, educate fathers in their responsibilities, bring Christ to those who need comfort and strength, and especially, to work to end abortions. She and her co-workers from Real Choices are now operating under their new name Deeper Still and Hope Ministries and we continue to aid them whenever possible. In March, we were able to send $250 to each of two moms, one who delivered a baby girl and one who requires bedrest until her baby is delivered. Thank you again for your generosity to Project Dresser so that we can continue to help those in need who choose life for their children. May the blessings of the Risen Christ be with you and your families at Easter and throughout the year.

Thank you.

Prayer of the Elderly, Saint Pope John Paul II

Grant, O Lord of life, That we may savor every season of our lives as a gift filled with promise for the future. Grant that we may lovingly accept your will, and place ourselves each day in your merciful hands. And when the moment of our definitive “passage” comes, grant that we may face it with serenity, without regret for what we shall leave behind. For in meeting you, after having sought you for so long, we shall find once more every authentic good which we have known here on earth, in the company of all who have gone before us marked with the sign of faith and hope. Mary, Mother of pilgrim humanity, pray for us “now and at the hour of our death.” Keep us ever close to Jesus, your beloved Son and our brother, the Lord of life and glory. Amen!”

Bishop Mueggenborg's Gospel Reflection

5th Sunday of Lent

April 6, 2025

Here Jesus is presented with a woman caught in adultery who is about to be stoned to death by the scribes and Pharisees. During this Lenten time, these dynamics remind us that we, too, are called to forgive and be forgiven as part of our ongoing repentance.

One point to note is the attitude of the Pharisees and scribes who are trying to entrap Jesus. They have cleverly devised a plan to put Jesus in a compromising position by which they think He will end up either condemning the woman to death or openly contradicting the Mosaic Law. Either of these two choices would cause our Lord to lose the support and admiration of many disciples.

In order to carry out this plan of entrapment, the Pharisees and scribes claim that a woman has been caught in the very “act” of adultery. This means that she was entrapped as well yet the man was apparently allowed to go free since he is not mentioned. Thus, a double standard is immediately revealed in their plan. The woman is objectivized and publicly humiliated as she is accused in front of the crowd and her life is laid bare for all to see. Throughout the conversation with Jesus, the Pharisees and scribes treat the woman as nothing more than an instrument of their ultimate goal, which is to discredit the Lord. She is not a person to them but only an unfortunate bystander in their plot to seek Jesus’ demise. Her life hangs in the balance and those condemning her seem to be indifferent to her plight.

In the face of such callous malice, Jesus first responds by ignoring their challenge and writing on the ground. When they press the issue with Him a second time, our Lord responds by discrediting them when He says, “Let he who has no sin cast the first stone.” Suddenly they walk away as they realize the injustice of applying a standard to others that they are not able to apply to themselves. With their hypocrisy exposed, they no longer condemn the woman nor ask Jesus to do so. They simply walk away one by one as they realize their own guilt.

In this interaction, Jesus is challenging all of us to correct the injustices we practice in our relationships when we treat other people as mere objects, instruments of our own pursuits, or pawns in our daily games. Our callous indifference to others’ distress and our participation in their humiliation or objectification does not decrease their dignity or worth in the eyes of God, but actually makes us become less human. We become inhumane any time we act contrary to the charity and justice of God in whose image and likeness we are created.

- Who tries to entrap religious leaders today so as to discredit their message?
- How are people used as pawns today for the personal pursuits of others?
- When do you see a double standard used in our society by which some are held accountable for their actions and others are not?
- It is sometimes said that we are most critical of others about those things we most dislike in ourselves. What does this saying mean to you in light of this story?
- How does this encounter with Jesus challenge you to reconsider the standard you are using for others?
- When do you see people act in an inhumane way (acting contrary to the charity and justice of God, in whose image and likeness they are created)?

Sunday Q&A

Your Faith in Focus

YOU CAN HAVE FUN THIS LENT

Should couples still have date nights during Lent? Should I still go out with friends during this season?

Is your Lenten season bringing you closer to Christ and preparing your heart for Easter? I hope so. Here are some tips and thoughts about going out for fun in this homestretch of Lent.

Lent calls us to penance: prayer, fasting, and almsgiving. But does that mean we have to stop having date nights with our significant other? Are we resigned to sit in sackcloth and ashes instead?

Jackie and Bobby Angel have some date-night ideas that both celebrate Lent appropriately and enable you to grow in intimacy with your significant other. And no, eating locusts and honey is not on that list.

These are doable ways to connect prayer, fasting, and giving with your relationship with your spouse, fiancé (fiancée), or significant other. If you are single, we understand you, and God has you! These tips could be great ideas for growing friendships.

- Go off the beaten path and be creative. It still is Lent, and penitential is best, but thoughtful preparation and execution can strengthen your relationships, especially when you find actionable ways to engage in Lenten practices together.
- Pray together before your date. Check out what's happening in your parish and incorporate it into your date night or go to church for a prayerful visit before you head to your activity.
- Simplify and embrace fasting practices together. This might affect your restaurant choice, what you order, what you skip—and done together, this can be an act of faith and love.
- Tithe together. Why not skip dessert and donate to your parish or a charity?
- Volunteer together. Make bags for the homeless, or volunteer at a food pantry or at your parish's fish fry.
- Group date. Host a night with board games and tabletop games with other couples where everyone goes tech-free. Perhaps a group Rosary is in there somewhere.
- Have fun but challenge each other in holiness. Remember on Ash Wednesday when you heard how to fast? Shed gloomy thoughts as you strive to be penitential and joyfully grow together in following Jesus.

Ponder and Pray

- How have you grown in your relationships this Lent?
- Do any of these ideas seem actionable for this upcoming weekend as we head into Holy Week?
