FY25 Operating Cash Balance

$452,227

FY2025 Financial Commentary

Despite the generous support of our parishioners, we finished 2025 fiscal year with a $17,605 deficit. It is worth noting that the deficit was made smaller by a $14,000 rebate from reaching the Archdiocese of Boston's 2025 Catholic Appeal target, but we cannot count on that when creating the 2026 budget.

We had a deficit because our offertory was less than the previous year by $5,986. Coupled with our expectation of an inflationary increase the offertory was actually $33,152 below budget.

We covered the $17,605 deficit with a corresponding withdrawal from our cash reserves. The cash reserve balance after this withdrawal was $452,227.

Not included, but noted here for completeness, we finished the year with $602,295 still available to the capital campaign with approximately $505,000 in projects to be fulfilled and more pledges still outstanding (see full capital campaign report online).

FY26 Planned Budget

We have approved a planned budget for the current fiscal year 2026 and have delivered it to the Archdiocese of Boston. To remain sustainable, we have budgeted a total income of $2.025M, calculated with $1.597M coming from the offertory collection, $240k from the year-end Grand Annual Collection and the remainder from other sources. The budgeted offertory collection is based on a 2-3% minimum giving per parish family/giver, with a goal of 5%. A bit less than 1/3 of our donors used Online Giving for their donations. If you do not already do so, please consider using Online Giving as it improves the consistency of income to the parish.

The 2026 budget reflects an increase in expenses of 10.5% over a 4-year period, which is a little above the official rate of inflation. However, given the cumulative deficit over the last 4 years ($21,103) and trying to budget for a current year surplus we are budgeting for an increase in our offertory.
