Live The Liturgy Inspiration of the Week

The Christian life does not require wisdom, charisma, or strength — no, quite the opposite.
To be Christian, we must embrace our faults, our littleness, our shortcomings — gather them up, and lay them all at the feet of Jesus. There, they will be transformed.

MASS INTENTIONS

From the Office of Evangelization

Gospel reflection for the Fourteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Are you tired? Some days I am just plain exhausted. I may be concerned about a friend, questioning a parenting decision, adding a new workout, or being disappointed in the time I set aside for prayer. Did I switch the laundry? Who is picking up the kids from camp? Did you see the mychart results? The list goes on and on. Everyone's situations are vastly different during various seasons of life. I have so much to do and need more time. The truth is, we all have moments when we feel completely physically, emotionally, and spiritually drained—the moments when we need someone and when we need to ask for help. Who we go to and what we do during these times of complete exhaustion, sadness, and difficulty are essential to our healing, rest, and, more importantly, our relationship with Jesus.

Why is it so difficult to ask for help? Are we trying to prove something? How strong, efficient, capable, and independent we are. Maybe it is not that; perhaps we don't think about it. But, when we are in communion with Jesus and building our authentic relationship with Him, it should be natural to go to Him for help. My favorite part about this weekend's gospel is how Jesus provides us guidance, comfort, and clear instructions. Jesus says, "Come to me, all you who labor and are burdened, and I will give you rest."

When I am tired, I tell Jesus. Sometimes, I get sassy and remind Him that He made me this way. That is authentic and honest. I invite you to do the same, be sassy, be honest, and tell Him if you are happy, sad, lonely, struggling, worried, excited, or just plain tired. He wants to lighten your burdens. Sit with Jesus, listen to him, and be present. This is what relationships are about. He invites us to share with Him and will give us rest in return. I am not suggesting a "spa day" or "round of golf," although those sound nice too! You likely desire a life-giving kind of rest.

Accept His invitation to go to Him, and He will give you rest.

Jesus, I trust in You!

O' Most Holy Trinity, we adore You!
