Seminarian's Reflections

Dear Friends,

In today's first reading and Gospel we hear of divine visitations to humble servants. The first reading from Genesis recounts Abraham's meeting with the Lord in Mamre and the Gospel reading shares Luke's rendition of the Incarnate Lord's encounter with Martha and Mary in Bethany. There is a wonderful theme that is shared between both of these pericopes. Both Abraham and Martha offer hospitality to the divine. The three men that Abram encounters are traditionally held as a foreshadowing of the revelation of the mystery of the Holy Trinity, they are angels. In encountering these angels, Abraham immediately offers them respite, even going as far as to slaughter the choice steer for their nourishment. Unbeknownst to Abraham, he is serving the Lord, for this is a theophany. In the Gospel passage, Martha embodies the servant attitude of Abraham. The story of Martha and Mary, found in the Gospels of Luke and John, can sometimes be misinterpreted to show Martha in a poor light. Yes, the Lord's slight rebuke of Martha can be startling, but it is important to note that Martha was not performing an inherently bad act. Rather, while her service of the Lord is a noble, virtuous, and generous act, Christ also wishes for Martha to be generous in that way that Mary is. The generosity that Mary is showing is a giving of her complete and entire time and attention to the Lord. Much like Abraham was generous with his divine visitors in the form of an offering of time, so is Mary. This contrast between Mary and Martha teaches us that there is a proper time to complete concrete acts in service of the Lord as well as an integral part of resting in the presence of the Lord. What Mary offers Christ is a gift of self in the form of time and love. This is very similar to what the Ignatian spiritual tradition calls "contemplative prayer." Contemplative prayer in the Ignatian tradition is a clearing of the mind and setting oneself proactively in the presence of the Lord, simply listening for movements of His grace. Time spent grounding oneself in the presence and heart of the Lord is a remedy for anxiety and worries about many things. Christ states that Mary chose "the better part." What is "the better part"? Because what Martha is doing is an inherently good thing, Christ does not condemn her but rather pivots the focus to a better reality, an internal reality. This "better part" is always union with God. Mary chose union with Christ the bridegroom. Perhaps a hermeneutical key to help understand Mary's decision is Matthew 9:15. For in this passage rebukes the disciples of John the Baptist saying, "Can the wedding guests mourn as long as the bridegroom is with them? The days will come when the bridegroom is taken away from them, and then they will fast." I leave this connection for greater personal reflection. Please know of my prayers for you all and please pray for me.

Pax,
Joseph Beale
