SUNDAY
DECEMBER 21
2025

Dear Friends,
Recently, we celebrated the feast day of St. Lucy. Affectionately known as the “donut saint” to honor the Scandinavian tradition of having sweet rolls in her honor, St. Lucy was martyred for preserving her virginity against many evils that were inflicted upon her. Her image appears in the cathedral, and she is often depicted holding a platter with her eyes in accord with the historical account of her martyrdom.

There is another beautiful image that St. Lucy invokes for us as detailed by the account of her martyrdom. St. Lucy stood as an “immovable object” against the devil. In other words, the Lord used her as a pillar of faith and strength in order to reveal to those present that, despite cruel and gruesome punishments, it could not deter Lucy from her longing to be united with Christ in the joy of His kingdom. She knew well that her sufferings would be great, but they would lead her to eternal life.

Immovable objects of faith

As we enter into this final week of our Advent journey, a good question to reflect on is this: “Am I an immovable object of faith to those around me, or do I allow the evil one to steamroll me and run me down because I don’t want to face what could happen should I publicly show my love for Jesus?”

Many people are good at crying out when it comes to injustice and threats against the faith, but when the heat gets turned up and the spotlight is on us, are we ready to act on the words we have spoken? We have so many holy helps to become an immovable object like St. Lucy was - among them, the gift of the Eucharist and the prayers of our Lady. We want to be people that will put fear and trembling in the evil one when he sees us. We need not be towering in physical stature to overcome him; after all, Christ was a tiny child! The spiritual stamina we seek is there, friends - all we need do is ask for it!

Tragedy averted

On Saturday morning of last weekend, we had a small fire here at the Parish Center. One of the rooftop air handlers caught fire and burned up. Thankfully, our fire alarm system did its job in alerting Madison firefighters to a problem. Their quick response allowed them to extinguish the fire before it got out of control. The building suffered no damage.

As part of the elevation project, we had purchased new units for the entire Parish Center last spring, so the new unit was already on site. It was put into service this past week, and I can feel my feet again! ☺ I am grateful to the Lord and our Lady for protecting us and ensuring that there was no loss of life or injury to our first responders.

Sadly, other parts of our world weren’t as blessed as we were. There have been a series of tragedies of late: the killing of two US soldiers from Iowa and their interpreter in Syria, the shooting at Brown University, a targeted shooting in Sydney which claimed the lives of many people, and the tragedy suffered by the Reiner family.

The evil one will stop at nothing to try and diminish our spirit as we look to the coming of the Christ child, but we cannot allow that to happen. Evil and sin may enjoy a temporary laud, but it never has the final say. The birth of Christ begins the great work of salvation in which death is swallowed up in victory. So many people struggle around this time of the year as they remember loved ones who are no longer with them or celebrate their first Christmas without someone who was close to them. Christ is our hope, and He brings an abundance of this gift in the joy of the Incarnation.

Calendar raffle

We are at the halfway mark in the calendar raffle. We’ve sold 200 tickets, which is wonderful! However, we still have 200 more tickets to go before we reach our goal of 400 tickets sold. Thanks for your generosity in helping us get there. Next week, we’ll start a Flocknote push to everyone’s email to encourage ticket sales in these final weeks.

Consecration in spring

I had mentioned to you awhile back that we were hopeful to have the cathedral consecrated in mid-February, right before the start of the Lenten season. Due to ever-shifting schedules of construction timelines and the availability of materials, I’m sad to report that the mid-February consecration will not be possible.

The good news is that we’ll only have a bit longer to wait. We’re in the process of setting a new date shortly after Easter Sunday.

“Many people are good at crying out when it comes to injustice and threats against the faith, but when the heat gets turned up and the spotlight is on us, are we ready to act on the words we have spoken?”
- Fr. Michael

Once the date has been confirmed, I can share it with all of you. This will give us the extra time that’s needed to complete all our finishes and trims, and have everything spic and span and ready to welcome all the faithful for the joyful events of the consecration.

I very much appreciate your understanding and patience. I know that this has been a tremendous sacrifice for everyone, but we keep our hearts set on our return to the “promised land.” The Israelites found their home after their long journey, and we will, too.

Celebrating Christmas

Please plan to join us for our Christmas Masses. Even though we’re still in the gym, John has really outdone himself with a wonderful pre-Mass concert which will take place on Christmas Eve at 8:15pm.

The office will be closed on December 24th, 25th, and 26th. The office will close at 12 noon on New Year’s Eve and will be closed on January 1st and 2nd.

If you’re traveling, please be safe as you travel and enjoy the time with your families. To those who will be with us, I look forward to celebrating the joy of Christmas with you all. May the Christ child find a loving place in your heart in which to dwell.

With love in the Sacred Heart,
Fr. Michael

PARISH OFFICE SCHEDULE

LIVES OF THE SAINTS

December 26, 2025

The following information is reprinted with permission from www.catholicculture.org:

Feast of St. Stephen

The deacon Stephen, stoned in Jerusalem two years after the death of Christ, has always been the object of very special veneration by the faithful. He is the first martyr. The account in the Acts of the Apostles relating his arrest and the accusations brought against him emphasize the parallel with our Saviour's trial; he was stoned outside the city wall and died, like his Master, praying for his executioners.

Stephen belongs to the group of seven deacons whom the Apostles associated with their work in order to lighten their load. He was "filled with faith and with the Holy Spirit," "full of grace and strength" he showed himself as a man of God, radiating divine grace and apostolic zeal. As the first witness to Christ he confronted his opponents with quiet courage and the promise made by Jesus (Mark 13.11) was fulfilled: ". . . Disputing with Stephen they were not able to resist the wisdom and the spirit that spoke."

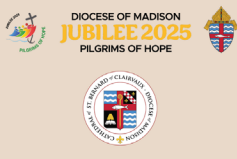

In St. Stephen, the first martyr, the liturgy emphasizes the imitator of Christ even to the extent of the complete gift of self, to the extent of that great charity which made him pray in his suffering for his executioners. By establishing the feast on the day after Christmas the Church draws an even closer comparison between the disciple and the Master and thus extends his witness to the whole mission of the redeeming Messiah.
