PASTOR’S PULSE ON THE PARISH

SUNDAY
FEBRUARY 8TH

Dear Friends,
This weekend, I’d like to share a significant update on the cathedral’s timeline. While we’ve tried to attach timelines to almost every aspect of the project, the wildcard was the detailed woodworking that needed to be done for the intricate pieces, which include the reredos, the side altars and several other pieces. It was determined that our original timelines were not adequate.

After meeting with Bishop Hying this past week, he expressed the desire to consecrate the cathedral when it’s completely finished. While we could have had some things ready for the consecration in May, the cathedral would not have been completely finished. The decision was made to postpone the consecration of the cathedral until the early fall. This will ensure everything is done well and in the needed timeframe so as to not affect overall quality by rushing to get things finished.

Facing challenges

I understand that this will be a great disappointment to you, as we will need to endure some additional months in the gymnasium. There is much wisdom in the bishop’s decision to wait until everything is complete. The first Mass at the cathedral will be the Mass of Consecration. It will most likely be televised on EWTN and covered by major news outlets. Many prelates and dignitaries will be in attendance as well. Ensuring we have the needed time to get things finished and test out all our new systems will be a great blessing.

John’s departure at the end of the month introduced some additional challenges that needed to be overcome. With the later date, we will, God willing, have a new director in place. The two organs will be installed and blessed at the Mass, and will be used for the first time. Everything will be in a better place and more settled so we can move into the consecration with a sense of readiness.

We’ve had to move a number of events to other churches, including the ordinations to priesthood and transitional diaconate. I’m working with six wedding couples to reaccommodate them to other churches for weddings that were scheduled to be celebrated in the late summer. The Lord is inviting us to wait just a bit longer, and so, we respond as we always have: with faith, trust and a renewed sense of prayer for all who are working to bring the project to completion. A specific date has not yet been determined at this time, but when it does, I will share it with you as soon as I can.

Sacred music director

Things are moving along with the sacred music director position. While this is a diocesan position, the director will spend a good amount of time here, and will be a great steward of the beautiful instruments that have been entrusted to our care. The job posting ends on February 16th, and after that time, we will begin with a selection of candidates that we would like to interview.

A committee has been formed which includes one person from the cathedral choir, one person from the diocesan choir, a current music director, a member of the faithful, bishop, myself, the Vicar General and the director of the Office of Worship.

As of this writing, we have 13 candidates who have applied. Of those 13, there are a few which bring me some excitement. Let us join in intercessory prayer to St. Cecilia that we will receive a new director that is willing to share their gifts and talents openly and generously with the cathedral, the diocese and all the faithful. I’ll continue to keep you updated as the process unfolds.

Expressing gratitude

Thanks to everyone who contributed so generously to the St. Vincent de Paul blanket drive this past weekend. Your generous response ensures that those in need are well-cared for. It’s been a difficult winter for so many, and with the recent rate increase in electricity and natural gas, it’s made a difficult situation even worse. These acts of kindness and love are reminders that we are called to serve Christ in all our brothers and sisters.

Offering prayers, surrender

We offer our prayers to the family of Darcy Hall (nee Schwogler), whose funeral will be celebrated here on Monday morning. May the Lord grant her the fullness of life in the joy of His kingdom.

I know that we’ve been through so much, friends, and this is just another small hiccup that we’ll get through together. I share in your disappointment, but it’s a good reminder to me and to all of us that sometimes our schedules and timelines do not align with what the Lord wills for us. We surrender to the Lord and greet Him with the words of our Lady, “Let it be done to me as you have said.”

*With love in the Sacred Heart,
Fr. Michael*

LIVES OF THE SAINTS

February 10, 2026

The following information is reprinted with permission from www.catholicculture.org:

St. Scholastica

St. Scholastica, like her brother St. Benedict, dedicated herself to God from early youth. Information on the virgin Scholastica is very scanty. In his Second Book of Dialogues (Ch. 33 and 34) Pope St. Gregory has described for us the last meeting between brother and sister:

“His sister Scholastica, who had been consecrated to God in early childhood, used to visit with him once a year. On these occasions he would go to meet her in a house belonging to the monastery a short distance from the entrance. For this particular visit he joined her there with a few of his disciples and they spent the whole day singing God’s praises and conversing about the spiritual life. “When darkness was setting in they took their meal together and continued their conversation at table until it was quite late. Then the holy nun said to him, ‘Please do not leave me tonight, brother. Let us keep on talking about the joys of heaven till morning.’ ‘What are you saying, sister?’ he replied. ‘You know that I cannot stay away from the monastery.’ The sky was so clear at the time, there was not a cloud in sight.

Prayers for her brother to stay

“At her brother’s refusal Scholastica folded her hands on the table and rested her head upon them in earnest prayer. When she looked up again, there was a sudden burst of lightning and thunder accompanied by such a downpour that Benedict and his companions were unable to set foot outside the door. By shedding a flood of tears while she prayed, this holy nun had darkened the cloudless sky with a heavy rain. The storm began as soon as her prayer was over...He had no choice now but to stay, in spite of his unwillingness. They spent the entire night together and both of them derived great profit from the holy thoughts they exchanged about the interior life. The next morning Scholastica returned to her convent and Benedict to his monastery.

Watching her soul enter heaven

“Three days later as he stood in his room looking up toward the sky, he beheld his sister’s soul leaving her body and entering the heavenly court in the form of a dove. Overjoyed at her eternal glory, he gave thanks to God in hymns of praise. Then, after informing his brethren of her death, he sent some of them to bring her body to the abbey and bury it in the tomb he had prepared for himself. The bodies of these two were now to share a common resting place, just as in life their souls had always been one in God.”
