Thoughts from the Pastor's Desk ...

Dear friends of Blessed Trinity,
“Praise the Lord, my soul!”

The Responsorial Psalm sung at Mass today resounds a beautiful action but also raises a worthy question. Does your soul praise the Lord? Do you consider and give thought to the working of your soul?

The Catechism of the Catholic Church defines the soul as “The spiritual principle of human beings. The soul is the subject of human consciousness and freedom; soul and body together form one unique human nature. Each human soul is individual and immortal, immediately created by God. The soul does not die with the body, from which it is separated by death, and with which it will be reunited in the final resurrection” (Cf. CCC 363, 366, 1703).

Just as you have life of the body, so too do you have life of the soul. Just as you seek health of body, so too must we seek health of soul. Just as you develop mastery over your body, nourishing and strengthening it, so too are we to have mastery over the soul through prayer, piety, and devotion. Does your soul praise the Lord? Do you give thought to the working of your soul?

Bodily riches and creaturely comforts can too often deaden the soul. “Lying upon beds of ivory, stretched comfortably on their couches” many can become complacent and consider little the eternal and true. Entranced by wanton revelry may we not fall on the wrong side of the chasm of heaven’s glory. Rather let us lay hold of eternal life and live each day in the company of the Lord! Foster the health of your soul through spiritual reading, contemplation of Sacred Scripture, adoration of the Blessed Sacrament, consideration of God’s mighty works in your life! Praise the Lord, my soul!

Most Holy Trinity, I adore You!

My God, I love you in the Most Blessed Sacrament!

Fr. Pierz

SAINT JEROME, PRIEST & DOCTOR OF THE CHURCH

St. Jerome, one of the greatest scholars in Church history, was born in Stridon, a town in the region of Dalmatia, around 340 AD. Known for his sharp intellect and fiery temperament, Jerome dedicated his life to the study and translation of the Bible, leaving a lasting impact on the Church and its teachings.

EARLY LIFE AND EDUCATION

Jerome was born into a Christian family, though he only fully embraced Christianity after being baptized in Rome at the age of 18. In Rome, he immersed himself in the study of classical literature, particularly enamored with Cicero, the great Roman orator, and other pagan philosophers. His rigorous education, guided by pagan tutors, sharpened his skills in rhetoric and grammar, making him one of the most educated men of his time.

A VISION THAT CHANGED EVERYTHING

In 374, during a serious illness, Jerome had a life-changing vision. He found himself standing before the judgment seat of Christ, where he was accused of being more devoted to the works of Cicero than to Christ. The Lord's words, "You are a Ciceronian, not a Christian," struck Jerome to the core. Deeply moved, he committed himself entirely to Christ, abandoning his earlier passions to embrace a life of asceticism and Christian scholarship.

A LIFE OF PENANCE AND STUDY

Shortly after this pivotal experience, Jerome withdrew to the desert of Chalcis in Syria, where he lived as a hermit for several years. During his time there, he endured physical hardship and engaged in deep study, learning Hebrew—a language rarely studied by Western Christians at the time. This decision not only helped him understand the Scriptures in their original context but also equipped him for the monumental task that lay ahead.

OUR FAITH.

SERVICE TO POPE DAMASUS AND THE CHURCH

After his time in the desert, Jerome was ordained as a priest. Around 382, he was summoned to Rome by Pope Damasus I, who recognized his talent and appointed him as his secretary. During this period, Jerome began his great work of revising the Latin translations of the Bible. The existing Latin versions were full of inconsistencies and errors, and Pope Damasus entrusted Jerome with the task of creating a more reliable and unified text.

THE VULGATE: A MASTERPIECE OF TRANSLATION

In 385, Jerome left Rome and settled in Bethlehem, where he spent the rest of his life. He took up residence near the cave where Jesus was born, establishing a monastery and dedicating himself to his translation work. Over the next 40 years, Jerome meticulously translated the Old and New Testaments from their original Hebrew and Greek into Latin. This translation, known as the Vulgate (meaning “common” or “popular” version), became the standard Bible for the Western Church for over a millennium and remains the official Latin text of the Catholic Church to this day.

Jerome’s approach to translation was marked by a commitment to accuracy and fidelity to the original texts. He often consulted Jewish scholars to ensure his translations of the Hebrew Scriptures were precise, reflecting his dedication to understanding the Scriptures as deeply as possible. His famous quote, “Ignorance of Scripture is ignorance of Christ,” emphasizes the importance he placed on the study of the Bible for all Christians.

COMPASSION FOR REFUGEES

In 410, when Rome fell to the Visigoths, many refugees fled to the Holy Land, reaching Bethlehem in search of safety. Despite his scholarly temperament and his preference for solitude, Jerome opened his heart to those in need. He put aside his scholarly pursuits to aid the displaced, stating, “Today we must translate the words of the Scriptures into deeds.” His compassion for the suffering was a testament to his deep Christian love and commitment to living out the Gospel.

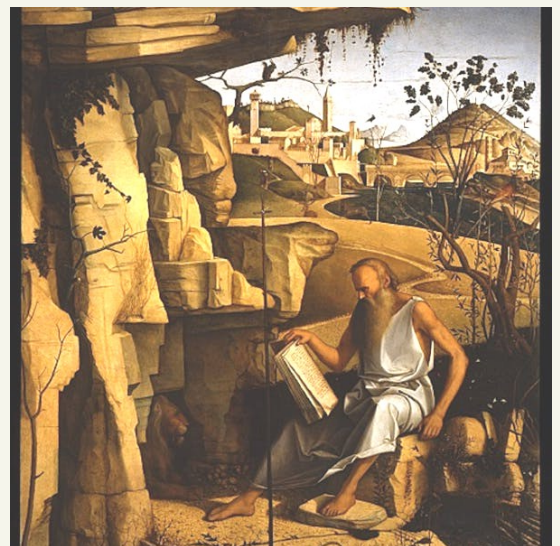

LEGACY AND DEATH

Jerome’s work was not without controversy. His sharp tongue and uncompromising approach to heresy earned him both admirers and detractors. He wrote extensively, producing numerous biblical commentaries, letters, and polemical works, often challenging those he saw as opponents of orthodox Christian belief. Despite his sometimes contentious personality, his contributions to Christian theology and biblical scholarship were unparalleled.

Jerome passed away on September 30, 420, in Bethlehem. Exhausted by years of penance, scholarly work, and service, he died in the cave where he had lived and labored for decades. His remains were later moved to Rome, and he was buried in the Basilica of St. Mary Major. Jerome is venerated as a Doctor of the Church, and his feast day is celebrated on September 30.

St. Jerome’s legacy as the translator of the Bible and a fierce defender of Scripture endures to this day. His monumental achievement in translating the Bible into Latin made the Word of God accessible to millions, shaping Christian thought and devotion for centuries. Jerome’s life reminds us of the importance of dedicating ourselves fully to the pursuit of truth, and of allowing our love for Christ to transform both our minds and our hearts.

SAINT VINCENT DE PAUL— SEPTEMBER SAINT UNIT

This September our Beacon of Light Preschool chose Saint Vincent de Paul for their Saint Unit.

Through Story Time, Crafts, and Take Home books the students learned about Saint Vincent's life and sainthood.

They learned how he lead a life full of charity and compassion for the poor which gave way to many groups and organizations throughout the world whose mission is the care and support of those in need.

They practiced caring for others in the classroom and will be raising money to donate to a local cause in need to embody Saint Vincent's life of charity.

BEACON OF LIGHT PRESCHOOL: CIDER PRESS

One learning theme this month includes apples! How to describe apples, the parts of an apple, and the life cycle of an apple/apple tree are just some of our learning and exploration into the world of apples. We even included students in learning how apple cider is made using a cider press! Students helped load the apples into the press, turn the grinding wheel to make apple mush, and turn the press to squeeze the cider out and into our pitcher to enjoy. Yum! Apples were generously donated by Clarkdale Orchard and Pine Hill Orchard! Beacon of Light Preschool will have an Apple Cider Fundraiser to benefit the St. Vincent De Paul fund which helps support the Pastoral Ministry to the Sick and Homebound, Food Pantry, and Community Meals. This directly ties into our study of St. Vincent de Paul and his works of charity and helping others in need.
