A Continuation of the Pastoral Letter

As disciples on mission, we embrace the Sacred Heart of Jesus, which is depicted as a heart on fire. As we break open the doors of our home and parishes to go out into the world to blaze a trail to Jesus, there should be a sign that reads, "Warning! You are now entering the mission field." That mission field can be as far away as a foreign land or the person standing in front of me at home, at work, in the grocery store or on the football field. Every moment and every person that I encounter in the course of every day is wanting Who and what I have in Jesus Christ: the way to healing in their hurting, the truth of hope in their despair, and the life of abundant joy in the midst of their tribulations. But why the warning? Well, if I choose to be a disciple of Jesus and a disciple sent on mission in His name, I must detach from everything in life that keeps me from being singularly attached to Jesus and the Kingdom of God. I cannot share Jesus with others, unless the Sacred Heart of Jesus is the deepest core of my heart. I must detach from anything and anyone that keeps Jesus from being the center of my life ... anything and anyone. Whoever and whatever else are at the center of my life will become the center of my mission proclamation and witness to others. Anyone or anything that is not Jesus could become a significant distraction to carrying out the mission entrusted to me as a disciple of Jesus. "Good Teacher what must I do to inherit everlasting life? And Jesus looking upon him loved him and said to him, 'You lack one thing, go, sell what you have and give it to the poor and you will have treasure in heaven' ... and the man went away sorrowful; for he had many things" (Mark 10:17-22). As disciples, we have many things that we don't want to give up or give over to Jesus. This is true not only in my personal life but also in our Catholic parishes, schools, apostolates and institutions. Anything that is not aligned with the mission to bring others closer to Jesus Christ and to give witness to the Kingdom of God must end.
