4th Sunday of Lent: I Was Blind and Now I See

He replied, "If he is a sinner, I do not know. One thing I do know is that I was blind and now I see." (Jn 9: 25)

The account of the healing of the man born blind may help us to consider our own situation. We might and should say, like that man: "I was blind and now I see." Without Jesus, we are like blind people who go about life walking unknown paths, and therefore, hurting ourselves. Without Jesus, we get into trouble and fall into sins that harm us and ruin the many chances that life is offering us. Without Jesus and the moral light that He gives us, we are carried away by our instincts and by the increasing permissive environment that we live in, and we will not only become our own worst enemy, but we will also hurt those around us, even those we love the most.

Instead, thanks to Jesus, we have a notion of good and evil that helps us to know where we can walk without making mistakes. Thanks to Jesus, even if we have sinned, we may start over again by asking for forgiveness and we also know what the path is that we have to walk along after falling. Let's give thanks to God for having had the opportunity to know Him. Let's run and tell everyone that we were blind and that Jesus has cured and saved us. If we do not do so, we will be committing a serious sin of omission, because it is our testimony that is going to help another person, who is as blind as we were, to seek and to find Christ, to have light and to allow himself to be saved by the Lord. Let's not be afraid to be criticized for defending and living out morals which others may call old-fashioned. Deep within, everyone admires those who go against the grain, and at each moment of history, these courageous people have saved the world.

Aspirations:

Be aware that your life has to be an inspiring testimony for others. Do not hide your faith out of fear. Become a witness.

Fr. Santiago Martin, FM

Founder & President of the Franciscans of Mary

4 ° domingo de Cuaresma: Era ciego y ahora veo

"Contestó él: 'Si es un pecador, no lo sé; sólo sé que yo era ciego y ahora veo'" (Jn 9, 25)

El relato de la curación del ciego de nacimiento nos puede ayudar para considerar cuál es nuestra propia situación. También nosotros podemos y debemos decir, como aquel hombre: "era ciego y ahora veo". Sin Jesús somos como ciegos que vamos por la vida andando por caminos desconocidos y, por lo tanto, dándonos golpes. Sin Jesús nos metemos en problemas y caemos en pecados que nos hacen daño y que incluso arruinan las muchas posibilidades que la vida nos ofrecía. Sin Jesús y la luz moral que Él nos da, nos dejamos llevar de nuestros instintos, de la ética ambiental cada vez más permisiva, y no sólo nos convertimos en nuestros principales enemigos, sino que hacemos daño a los que nos rodean, incluso a aquellos a los que más queremos.

En cambio, gracias a Jesús tenemos una noción del bien y del mal que nos ayuda a saber por dónde tenemos que caminar sin equivocarnos. Incluso aunque cayéramos, gracias a Jesús sabemos que podemos volver a empezar pidiendo perdón, y sabemos también cuál es el camino en el que tenemos que situar de nuevo nuestros pasos después de la caída. Démosle gracias a Dios por haber tenido la suerte de conocerle y corramos a contar a los demás que éramos ciegos y que Jesús nos ha curado, nos ha salvado. No hacerlo así será un grave pecado de omisión, pues quizá sea nuestro testimonio lo que ayude a esa persona, que es un ciego como nosotros lo éramos, a buscar y encontrar a Cristo, a tener luz, a dejarse salvar por el Señor. No tengamos miedo a que nos critiquen por defender y vivir una moral que llaman anticuada; en el fondo, todo el mundo admira a los que van contracorriente y, en cada momento de la historia, éstos son los que han salvado al mundo.

Propósito:

Date cuenta de que tu vida tiene que ser un testimonio atractivo para los demás. No ocultes tu fe por vergüenza. Sé testigo.

P. Santiago Martín, FM

Fundador & Presidente de los Franciscanos de María
