Are we the generation that lost faith?

A few years ago, I had an opportunity to participate in a conference whose main theme was "The New Evangelization according to St. John Paul II." The focus of my graduate studies and research was on the theological writings of Pope John Paul II and his call for a New Evangelization. During the conference, the presenter reminded us about the Pope's major challenge to priests in his letter published on Holy Thursday 1997. The Holy Father spoke about the importance of being a true pastor to all families. How important it was to offer spiritual guidance to the men and women serving Christ in the apostolate of the domestic church. He invited us to reflect on our generation and its response to Christ's call to discipleship. Our generation, it seems, has largely abandoned the faith yet expects all the gifts of salvation. The confusion that has arisen stems from a lack of clarity regarding conviction, knowledge, and love of Christ. The challenge that the Holy Father made was this: "Will you be known by history as the generation that lost the faith and let the Church of Christ fail?"

These words had a profound impact on me and have been the impetus for my evangelization efforts. Today, they continue to challenge the Church, but most especially our generation. We must decide whether we will continue to be the generation that allows the things of God to crumble, or will we be the generation that builds anew for the glory of God?

In the story of Jesus' encounter with the Samaritan woman at Jacob's well, despite being tired and thirsty, he did not let go of the opportunity to evangelize her, knowing that she had lived a difficult life. In his exchange with her, Jesus lets her know that he is what she has been looking for all her life-peace. Jesus transforms her pain into great joy and conviction that he is the Messiah. Because he knew and understood her pain, he was able to free her from that past in order to give her a new reason to give herself back to God.

¿Seremos la generación que perdió la fe?

Hace algunos años tuve la oportunidad de participar en una conferencia sobre la Nueva Evangelización como fue concebida por San Juan Pablo II. La mayoría de mis estudios superiores y encuestas han sido alrededor de este llamado que nos hacía el Santo Padre. En esta conferencia, el presentador reiteró un reto que San Juan Pablo II hizo a los sacerdotes durante su homilía el Jueves Santo del 1997. El Santo Padre nos hablaba de la importancia de ser pastores para todas las familias. La importancia de ofrecer guía espiritual a los hombres y mujeres en el apostolado de la iglesia doméstica en cada hogar. Nos invitó a contemplar nuestra generación y su respuesta a Cristo. Reconocemos que la Iglesia hoy vive con católicos indiferentes en cuanto a la propagación del Evangelio. Nuestra generación suele abandonar la fe y aún espera todo sin esfuerzo. Su confusión nace de una falta de claridad y convicción en el conocimiento y el amor a Cristo. El reto que nos ofrece el Santo Padre es: "¿Y ustedes, serán conocidos por la historia como la generación que perdió la fe y dejó la Iglesia de Cristo caer?"

Estas palabras me impactaron profundamente y forman el ímpetu de mis esfuerzos evangelizadores. Hoy estas palabras retan a toda la Iglesia, pero en especial a nuestra generación. Tenemos que decidir si continuaremos siendo la generación que deja que las cosas de Dios caigan o si seremos la generación que las construye para el honor y la gloria de Dios

En la historia de la mujer samaritana, encontramos al Señor llegando al pozo de Jacob. A pesar de que el Señor tiene mucha sed y cansancio, no pierde la oportunidad de evangelizar a una mujer que ha vivido una vida muy difícil. En el diálogo con ella, le da a conocer que él es la esperanza y respuesta de sus añoranzas por la paz. Dios toma su historia de dolor y la transforma en la fuente de convicción y creencia de que Jesús es el Mesías. Que, por conocer y transformar toda su historia, ha podido cambiar toda su vida para poder dársela a Dios.

Todos tenemos la obligación de llevar a otros a Cristo. No tienen que ser perfectos para que les hablemos del Señor, pero la mayoría de las veces son quienes más buscan su gracia.
