Time NEXT SUNDAY,
March 13, 2016!

"Jesus answered, 'Neither he nor his parents sinned; it is so that the works of God might be made visible through him.'" At this point, Jesus' disciples were still subject to the prevailing idea that physical disabilities were a punishment for sin. When they saw the man blind from birth, they simply assumed his lack of sight was the result of sin; they only wondered whose sin was responsible. But Jesus cast the entire question in another light. By telling His disciples that sin wasn't at work here, but that God was at work, Jesus must have shocked His hearers. How could God's work be made visible through a blind man?

It didn't take long to find out. Jesus used the opportunity to work a miracle. He anointed the man with mud, sent him to wash, and the man "came back able to see." This healing of course became a testament to the power of Christ, for those who were willing to see it.

As we face trials and tribulations in our lives, we also face the challenge of seeing how "the works of God might be made visible" through them. Understanding that God's love and care are still at work even in the most troublesome situations of life is a challenge to be sure. It requires a kind of spiritual vision that comes with purity of heart. In other words, the more we overcome the blindness caused by our sins, the more we are able to truly "see" the way things are and the way God works.

Jesus tells us today, "I came into this world for judgment, so that those who do not see might see, and those who do see might become blind." Thus we receive the same warning the Lord gave to the self-righteous Pharisees: we must humbly acknowledge our sins in order to clearly behold the way God is working in our lives.

FEBRUARY ACTIVITIES

The CTK Quilters helped the third graders sew pillows. One side of the pillow was a picture made by a batik method of art. Batik is an art form of dying material. They used clear glue gel and fabric dye to paint the design.

In February, for National Children's Dental Health Month, Shelly, a dental hygienist from Schindler and Stewart Family Dentistry in Bismarck, came in to talk to the students about brushing their teeth.

The kindergarten students shared their reading stories with the second grade students.
