SCHOOL UPDATE

First, I would like to give a big welcome to all of our new families here at Saint Ambrose! This year sure has been an odd one, but being surrounded by this community has made all the positive difference!

Governor Cuomo has released his guidance for schools, which addressed the health and safety of students, staff, and families. The State Education Department is also releasing its own set of guidelines, which will address school policies and academics. At this time, I am working with a team of staff members to dissect the guidance in order to develop a plan with 3 components of education (in-person, hybrid, and virtual). Our proposed plan will be available to you once finalized; however, the Governor will be making his final determination on the reopening of schools in August.

In the meantime, it would be so helpful if you helped your children develop consistent hygiene routines. Please have your children practice washing their hands properly (CDC hand washing guidance). It would also be helpful if your children became accustomed to wearing a mask, so I encourage you to have your children wear a face-covering for small periods of time at home.

Lastly, Mrs. Sano distributed Tuition Invoices last week. If you did not receive one, but are expecting one, please contact Mrs. Sano. If opting for FACTs payments (rather than paying in full), the first payment will be in August.

God Bless,
Mrs. Spera
