Spiritual Notes:

Today in Acts, Luke narrates the origin of the office of deacons. As the community of believers grows, the apostles find themselves overwhelmed. Their numbers include so many needy that they don't have time to preach: It is not right for us to neglect the word of God to serve at table. This is also causing stress between the Hellenist (Greek speaking) Christians and the Hebrew Christians. The situation leads to the selection of the first seven deacons, reputable men, filled with the Spirit and wisdom, who can handle the task of the daily distribution. This frees up the apostles to devote more time to preaching the word of God which continued to spread. The letter of Peter reminds us that there are two possible responses to Christ Jesus: acceptance or rejection. For those who reject Him, there is judgment. He is a rock that will make them fall, the writer says. As believers, we are called to be built into a spiritual house, to be a holy priesthood to offer spiritual sacrifices. God has called us to be a people of His own, the writer tells us, echoing the election of Israel in the Book of Exodus. In today's Gospel, Jesus calls us to stand firm in our faith. "You have faith in God; have faith also in me." Speaking to His disciples at the Last Supper, He calls them to a deeper union with Him and the Father. It is through Jesus that we are united with the Father, and He tells us that he is going to the Father to prepare a place for us.

For reflection: The story of the first deacons shows us that the work of God needs to be shared among ministers. Do I invite others to share in the work of the church? How does my faith enable me to share in the work of Jesus?

Notas Espirituales:

Hoy en Hechos, Lucas narra el origen del oficio de los diáconos. A medida que la comunidad de los creyentes crece, los apóstoles se encuentran abrumados. Sus números son tantos necesitados que no tienen tiempo para predicar: "No es justo que nosotros dejemos la palabra de Dios para servir en la mesa." Esto también están causando el estrés entre los helenistas (de habla griega) los cristianos y los hebreos (que hablan hebreo ó arameo). La situación lleva a elegir a los primeros siete diáconos, "hombres de buena reputación, / llenos de Espíritu y de sabiduría," que puede manejar la tarea de "la distribución diaria." Esto libera a los apóstoles a dedicar más tiempo a la predicación de la palabra de Dios, que "sigue extendiéndose."

La carta de Pedro nos recuerda que hay dos respuestas posibles a Cristo Jesús: de aceptación o rechazo. Para aquellos que lo rechazan, no hay juicio. Él es "una roca que hace caer," dice el escritor. Como creyentes, estamos llamados a "ser edificados como casa espiritual / para ser un sacerdocio santo, para ofrecer sacrificios espirituales." Dios nos ha llamado a ser "un pueblo de su propia heredad," el escritor nos dice, haciéndose eco de la elección de Israel en el libro del Éxodo.

En el evangelio de hoy, Jesús nos llama a mantenernos firmes en nuestra fe. "Tú tienes fe en Dios, creed también en mí." Hablando a sus discípulos en la Última Cena, los llama a una unión más profunda con él y con el Padre. Es a través de Jesús, que nos une con el Padre, y nos dice que él va al Padre, "a preparar lugar para" nosotros.

Para la reflexión: La historia de los primeros diáconos nos muestra que el trabajo de Dios tiene que ser compartida entre ministros. Cómo puedo invitar a otros a participar en la obra de la iglesia? ¿Cómo mi fe me permite participar en la obra de Jesús?

Por favor, recuerde en su oración, a todos los enfermos, al salir de casa, y la recuperación de nuestra parroquia. Además, orar por aquellos que sufren de condiciones físicas o mentales.
