Perseverance in Prayer Matthew 15:21-28

True love knows how to wait. True love knows—and must know—how to wait, because waiting, in a heart that truly loves, is like leaven that makes our desire for what we love grow, and like a crucible that purifies that desire.

Like the Canaanite woman in today's Gospel, Saint Monica, the mother of Saint Augustine, also followed and pursued the Lord for years through her prayers, with her intense "cries as a mother," asking for the conversion of her son and her husband. She was not discouraged by God's apparent silence. She followed her wayward son all the way to Italy, to Milan, until she finally saw him return to the Lord. She had asked only for his conversion, but the Lord gave her much more than that: He made her son an outstanding priest and bishop, and one of the greatest saints of all time. And she also saw her husband receive Baptism at the end of his life, on his deathbed.

In one of his sermons, Augustine recalls the words of Christ: "Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you." And he concludes by saying: "That is what the Canaanite woman did: she asked, she sought, she knocked at the door, and she received." Let us do the same, and the door will also be opened to us. Let us be insistent, persevering, even to the point of a holy persistence in prayer. For God, through His apparent silence, desires to fill us with blessings far beyond what we ask for, far beyond anything we could even imagine...

Fr. Salvador

La perseverancia en la oración Mateo 15, 21-28

El verdadero amor sabe esperar. El verdadero es paciente porque la espera en un corazón que ama verdaderamente es como un fermento que hace crecer el deseo de lo que se ama y como un crisol que lo purifica.

Como la mujer Cananea del evangelio de hoy, Santa Mónica, madre de san Agustín, había seguido y perseguido también al Señor durante años con su oración, con sus intensos "gritos de mujer", pidiéndole la conversión de su hijo y de su esposo. No se desalentó por el aparente silencio de Dios y ver los años pasar. Había seguido al hijo disoluto hasta Italia, hasta Milán, hasta que vio que regresaba al Señor. Ella solo pedía su conversión, pero el Señor le concedió mucho más que eso, pues hizo de su hijo un insigne sacerdote y obispo y uno de los más grandes santos de todos los tiempos. Y a su esposo, lo vio recibir el bautismo, hasta el final de su vida, en su lecho de muerte.

En uno de sus discursos, Agustín recuerda las palabras de Cristo: "Pidan y se les dará; busquen y encontrarán; toquen y se les abrirá", y termina diciendo: "Así hizo la Cananea: pidió, buscó, tocó a la puerta y recibió". Hagamos nosotros también lo mismo y también se nos abrirá. Seamos insistentes y perseverantes, hasta llegar a una santa impertinencia en la oración, pues Dios, con su aparente sordera, quiere colmarnos muy por encima de lo que pedimos, muy por encima de lo que ni siquiera podemos imaginar...

P. Salvador

Dios, ya puso un
don [♥] en tu corazón...

Ahora solo falta ponerlo al servicio de los demás.

"Que cada uno ponga al servicio de los demás el don que ha recibido, y de este modo serán buenos administradores de la multiforme gracia de Dios."
