From Our Pastor

There's a story about a priest who was telling some of the children in his parish about the stained-glass windows in the church. He told them that the huge windows were made up of many little colored panes that, when pieced together, create a bigger picture.

"That's the way it is in our parish family too. We're all part of a bigger story," the priest explained. Then he pointed to each of the children and said, "You see, you're a little pane, and you're a little pane, and you're a little pane..." It took him a while to realize why everyone was laughing.

We all have admired with pride over the years the stained-glass windows that adorn our Regan Hall. Those are the original windows from the St. Vincent de Paul parish church, built in 1922, that stood across the street where Steeple Pointe Benedictine Senior Living Community now stands.

Sadly, the little panes in those windows are creating for us a big pain. The building inspector has notified us that the windows have become structurally weak and present a safety hazard. The putty holding the little panes together is crumbling and the windows could collapse. Restoring the windows is projected to cost over $20,000 per window – and there are six windows.

So, the windows must come down – for now. The pieces will be placed in storage until we can come up with a plan. Maybe one day we will find another place on site to mount them.

I have great admiration and gratitude for the expert people on our Building and Facilities Committee. They do a great job – keeping us safe and our buildings up to code and strong. Thanks to all of you, too. Every square inch and graced moment of our parish life is a result of your faithful love and generosity.
