"HE WHO DOES JUSTICE WILL LIVE IN THE PRESENCE OF THE LORD"

BOTH KINDS

Some of the newest words in the Mass are addressed to communicants when they hear, "The Blood of Christ."

Most Catholics grew up receiving communion under one form. Many of them continue this practice although the cup is offered on many occasions. The presentation of the cup has not yet been received with the enthusiasm reserved for the Sacred Host.

Yet, the General Instruction of the Roman Missal encourages us: "Holy communion has a fuller form as a sign when it takes place under both kinds. For in this form, the sign of the Eucharistic banquet is more clearly evident. Clear expression is given to the divine will by which the new and eternal Covenant is ratified in the Blood of the Lord, as also the connection between the Eucharistic banquets and the eschatological banquet in the Kingdom of the Father."

At the beginning, of course, sharing the Body and Blood of the Lord was common. Eucharist evolved from the meal traditions of the people. Abstaining from the cup would have been as strange as not taking any drink with the evening meal.

During the middle ages, heretics began denying the real presence of Christ in the Eucharist, and the sharing of the cup became less frequent. Devotions became stricter. People gradually felt unworthy to receive communion and left that to the clergy. The fear of spilling the cup, the simplicity of not offering it, and the danger of spreading disease all contributed to the practice of giving communion under one form only when people chose to. Because we have always believed Christ was present in the bread as well as the wine, people reasoned they did not need both the true experience of communion.

However, today we think twice about this minimalism. Although Christ is truly present in either species, a fuller light shines on the Eucharistic banquet when we receive both, the holy Body and Blood of Christ.

When drinking from the cup, make a reverent bow to the cup of the Blood of Christ, then say "Amen" to the minister, in a sincere tone that reveals your faith in the blood of Christ before you. Then receive the cup with both hands, and take a drink. Enjoy the full symbol of the Eucharistic banquet with reverence and delightful thanksgiving.

If for any personal reason, one cannot receive the cup after receiving the bread, pause and make a reverent bow at the cup before proceeding on to your seat in the congregation.
