Something to Ponder If a stranger who knew nothing about the Eucharist were to watch the way we receive Holy Communion, would he believe we were receiving something truly holy and real - Our Lord Jesus Christ?

All God's Children Have a Place in the Choir

Thank you to Bode Fladeland, Ella Hynek, Lyndon Gustafson, Connor Gustafson, Hayes Gustafson and Hadley Fladeland, for singing during Holy Communion at the Christmas Day Mass. With the bad weather and cancellations, we had to practice with a voice memo only. I was proud of you for your courage and willingness to sing despite the lack of practice. Thank you for singing. It is a witness of your love for Jesus!

Question for Father Jason

What's the most adventurous thing you've ever done?

Two things come to mind. The first has to be leaving my job and selling my house to go to the seminary. I still remember my heart racing as I walked into my boss's office and sat down to break the news that I was quitting. It was like a sharp, 90-degree turn in life. But I knew God wanted me to take that step, so with his help I went ahead. Seminary and the priesthood are certainly an adventure, and I thank God for my vocation. The other thing that comes to mind is the first self-supported bicycle tour I ever took, way back in 2003. My friend and I flew down to Phoenix to pedal across the desert to El Paso, with a visit across the border into Mexico—something one would not attempt today in that location! This was long before smartphones and good GPS navigation. We had paper maps and a real chance of getting lost. Such trips are still a little adventurous, but not nearly like that first trip. My guardian angel was working overtime back then.

What did Adam say the day before Christmas?
It's Christmas, Eve!

Happy Birthday Jesus!

Shepherds going to Bethlehem!

Animals filled the stable!
