AUGUST 4, 2019
EIGHTEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

"Leave It To Beaver" ran from 1957-1963, at a stable time of American life in the aftermath of the Korean War. Starring Barbara Billingsley, Hugh Beaumont, Tony Dow, and Jerry Mathers each episode reflected the searching for life meaning by young people while their parents attempted to provide stable and moral advice and guidance. A recent episode watched had the Beaver rescue an abandoned dog on the streets, bringing him home to his bewildered parents, placing a newspaper advertisement to find its rightful owner, and then the agony of doing the right thing by relinquishing the innocent pet to its correct spot. Other shows around that period of American television story, such as "Lassie" and "My Three Sons," conveyed the same purposeful themes. Music from that period of time over fifty years ago reflected similar standards.

Within a few years of the aforementioned shows, in 1971 precisely, was a song by a group named "Ocean" called "Put Your Hand In The Hand." Repeated verses echo: "Put your hand in the hand of the Man who stilled the water. Put your hand in the hand of the Man who calmed the sea. Take a look at yourself and you can look at others differently. Put your hand in the hand of the Man from Galilee. My momma taught me how to pray before I reached the age of seven. When I'm down on my knees that's when I'm closer to heaven. Daddy lived his life, two kids and a wife. Well you do what you must do. But he showed me enough of what it takes to get me through, oh yeah!" This cultural past showed parental concern about soul and heart.

Fast forward to the culture of today where such programming is no longer the norm, but the exception. Some time ago I went to a restaurant that, undoubtedly, had very fine food. However, I was puzzled by one entrée name that was advertised. The pasta name was listed as "Strozzapreti," also referred to as "priest-choker" or "priest-strangler." The kindly waiter watered down the meaning for me, but I did further research on "Wikipedia" to clarify whatever this term truly meant. Here it is: "One is that gluttonous priests were so enthralled by the savory pasta that they ate too quickly and choked themselves. Another explanation involves the azdora housewife… would express rage (perhaps triggered by the misery and difficulties of her life) and curse the local clergy, resulting in a pasta that could choke a priest. A third states that wives would customarily make the pasta for churchmen as partial payment for land rents (in Romagna, the Catholic Church had extensive land properties rented to farmers), and their husbands would be angered enough by the venal priests eating their wives food to wish the priests would choke as they stuffed their mouths with it. The name surely reflects the diffuse anticlericalism of the people of Romagna and Tuscany. Another possible explanation is that following Sunday Mass, it was common for the priest to visit homes of the villagers and enjoy dinner with them. The more pleasant experiences for the priest would entice them to come back to that particular home more frequently. As a means for the family to let the priest know he might be overextending his welcome, they would serve this pasta." After this explanation, I am not sure where to eat.

In recent months there has been a series of physical attacks on Catholic churches in France, no doubt fueled by bad press of Her members and undoubtedly unpopular teachings about life and marriage. When Notre Dame Cathedral was struck by accidental fires during Holy Week in the middle of April, maybe a sign of hope for our culture was observed. The mass media and people alike were dismayed by the loss of history, relics, and spiritual relevance offered over the centuries by this famous cathedral (which I have visited twice). Construction and completion, along the Seine River in Paris, took place during the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. Victor Hugo, in 1831, made it more famous by writing "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" later a 1930's movie with Charles Laughton and Maureen O'Hara. The mighty fortress edifice survived eight centuries of societal strife, including the torturous French Revolution of the late 1700's. Collective grief may signify a cultural soul that is still alive, perhaps leading even symbolically to a spiritual revival of appreciation not hostility toward the sacred past. Maybe some day shows like "Leave It To Beaver," music like that of "Ocean," the majesty of personal histories of churches, and a respect of priests without choking them with food will be the norm. I patiently pray for that return. Father Bill

TODAY

EIGHTEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

First Reading: Ecclesiastes 1:2, 2:21-23

"Vanity of vanities." Sometimes we may work for wealth, wisdom and knowledge only to discover that it has been left for someone who did not toil for it. The offering of our work, fatigue and pain, if not for God, can also be a kind of vanity.

Second Reading: Colossians 3:1-5, 9-11

Paul urges us to seek what is good and from God, encouraging us to put our minds on the spiritual. He reminds us that, as Christians, we have died with Christ and are hidden with Christ until his glory is once again revealed. We are all one in Christ.

Gospel: Luke 12:13-21

On being requested to settle a question of inheritance, Jesus heeds us to beware of all covetousness because our life does not consist on the wealth of possessions. Through the lesson of a parable Jesus reinforces this teaching, explaining that those who store up the treasures of wealth and possessions are not the richest in God's eyes.

R.C.I.A. News
In our parish, the process known as the Rite of Christian Initiation for Adults (RCIA) is available to anyone who would like to have the opportunity to learn about the beliefs and practices of the Roman Catholic Church. The process is open to any adult who is unbaptized, or a member of a denomination other than the Catholic Church, or a baptized Catholic who has not completed reception of the Sacraments of Initiation, (Eucharist and/or Confirmation).
The formal aspects of the RCIA program will take individuals through various stages of study, prayer, and spiritual formation culminating in baptism (for non-Christians) or full reception into the Catholic Church at the Easter Vigil. If you know a man or woman who has expressed some personal interest in Catholicism please contact the rectory at (845-561-2264). Informal introductory sessions will acquaint the inquirer with the RCIA process and will be the first step in their journey of faith.
