

Stations of the Cross Mini-Book or Notebooking Page

This file includes two Stations of the Cross printable projects! One is a lift-flap notebook page and the other is a Stations of the Cross mini booklet!

The notebook page is great if you are creating a notebook (3 ring binder) which holds the many other pages you have made during the school year.

The mini booklets can be carried in the children's pocket or purse during the Lenten season as a reminder to meditate on the Stations and Christ passion whenever they have a few free minutes.

1. Lift-Flap Notebook Page

To make the lift-flap page you will need:

- Pages like those pictured here →
- crayons or colored pencils (optional)
- scissors
- glue or tape

Color the images. Cut out the rectangles along the dotted lines and cut between the station's title boxes. Glue or tape the top of each section in the proper place on the sheet which includes a black and white image of each of the stations.

After you have it all glued down you can lift the flaps and see an image for the station's title.

2. Stations of the Cross Mini Booklet

It's small enough to be carried easily in a pocket or a purse!

You will need:

- the download pages like these →
- colored pencils or crayons (optional)
- scissors
- stapler

Just color the black and white pictures (optional). Older kids often prefer it uncolored.

Then, cut, fold, and assemble the mini pages as directed on the instruction page.

Color the pictures on the previous page and this page. Cut out around the 3 rectangles (below) along the dotted lines. Cut between each of the stations, but don't cut all the way through. They should remain attached together at the top of the rectangle. Use a glue stick or tape to attach the top of these rectangle to the matching area on the previous page. Now you should be able to lift the flap and see the correct image for the station's title.
