Deacon Kurt Hadley from Saint Joseph Parish in Kennewick, completed formation for priestly ministry at Mount Angel Seminary. He has assisted at Queen of Peace Parish in South Salem, serving Mass, sometimes preaching, and meeting with parish groups. Kurt has also participated in choirs; Deacon Kurt was also helped with his Spanish by parishioners of our Lady of the Desert in Mattawa.

On the Cerntral Washington Catholic Newsletter Kurt said:

“You go into the seminary and you think you want to be a priest and that God wants that, but you really don’t know,” Hadley reflected. Now, however, after many years of studies in philosophy, theology and the other rubrics of priesthood, he believes that the path is clear.

“Whenever I’m studying the missal and trying to catch every detail, I think, ‘I’ll never be able to do this.’ But when I’m actually at the altar doing it, even as I make mistakes, it feels easy and natural,” he said.

For his ordination Mass, Hadley hopes to use a chalice given to him by the late Monsignor Desmond Dillon, a special mentor in his life. (Before Monsignor Dillon, the chalice belonged to a brother of the late Archbishop Cornelius Power who was a priest.) He also has a chalice given to him by the Knights of Columbus which will be part of his traveling Mass kit.

Hadley’s fondest hope, upon becoming a priest, is to be the pastor of a parish, something he acknowledges will probably not happen for a number of years.

“I have loved every single parish assignment I’ve ever had,” he said.

In the meantime, Hadley asks for prayers, “that I will be a good priest for a long time,” he said.

Congratulations and many blessings to the newest priest-to-be of the Diocese of Yakima!

I WILL PRAISE YOUR NAME FOR EVER, MY KING & MY GOD

Jesus gives his disciples a new commandment: love one another.

Family Connection

loyolapress.com/our-catholic-faith/

Is love the first word your family members use to describe their interactions? Love is difficult. Jesus' sacrifice for us is an example of this. Yet because of love, the glory of God is fully revealed in Jesus. God's glory is revealed in us when we act as the Body of Christ, as individuals and as a community. In the love we have for one another—difficult, challenging, sacrificial love—we find Jesus.

Choose one or two occasions when your family was together during the week. Describe the family's interactions from an outsider's perspective. When is it less difficult to show love to family members? When is it more difficult? When love is difficult, what do we do?

Jesus didn't just tell us to love one another. He showed us how to love one another. In what ways did Jesus show us how to love? (in his acts of healing and forgiving; at the Last Supper as he washed his disciples' feet; in the gift of the Eucharist; through his death on the Cross)

EXTRAORDINARY MINISTERS OF THE EUCHARIST & LECTORS

Does your love for the Eucharist include desire to distribute Communion at Mass or take Eucharist to hospitals, nursing homes or the homebound? Would you like to become more active in your parish liturgy by distributing Communion as a extraordinary minister of the Eucharist? Do you wonder what is required to become a special minister of the Eucharist?

Do you ever wish you could lector at Mass? Do you wonder what it takes to be a lector? Do you yearn to participate more actively in the liturgy? As you listen to the readings do you feel the call to liturgical ministry to proclaim the Word of God?

More are needed. Interested? Please leave your name and Phone number at the parish office. 509-966-0830

How to NOT Crash & Burn During Finals (part 1)

By Caitlin Dillon Duke <https://bustedhalo.com/features/may-is-for-mary>

There was a routine part of my life that scared me like nothing else did similarly. It wasn't going to the dentist or watching scary movies around Halloween... it was exam season.

Finals can prove to be a tough time with several challenges associated with it. With exams carrying a large part of GPA weight, essay page minimums that look like a Tolkien novel, and deadlines that look so close together it reminds you of 5 o'clock traffic, it seems that finals season and high stress accompany each other. One minute you're cruising through work and the next, the tidal wave of upcoming assignments and exams hit.

Through a lot (and I mean a LOT) of trial and error in my high school and current college careers, I have learned a handful of lessons about how to make finals season not only bearable but fruitful as well.

Above All Else, Give it to God

Nothing else in this piece will be as important as this; give everything to Him. When school gets hectic, and it seems like every day you're struggling to keep up with deadlines, the option to skip prayer/mass seems like a very tempting option. Let me stress that if anything, times of high stress are times when we need to pray more and dive even deeper into the sacraments. Yes, it is very much possible to get good grades without prayer, but without prayer, it becomes very easy to begin to see grades as what defines our existence. Our identity is in the Lord and losing that knowledge is worse than any bad grade on an exam.

Speaking of prayer, let us not forget that there are saints that are eager to help us with our academic challenges. If you aren't sure who to pray to, know that there is no wrong answer when we ask for help from the saints. In particular, St. Joseph of Cupertino (patron saint of studying) is someone that has come in clutch for me during exam season. If you're looking for someone to pray when it comes to essays, St. Francis de Sales (patron saint of Catholic writers and adult education) is someone that you should consider asking intercession from, but again, there is no "bad" saint to pray to in any situation.

One Thing At a Time

When I would look at everything I had to do during finals season, it seemed like this unclimbable mountain of work and studying that had to be done. In the same way that people don't climb mountains with one gigantic stride, finals can't be crammed and completed in one study session. It is by slowly but surely working our way up the mountain and focusing on one assignment at a time that we reach the end.

Yes, finals season tends to require more time and energy spent on academics than normal but it is not impossible. While the list of tasks that teachers give that during finals season might seem to be ridiculously long, the work becomes much less overwhelming and much more possible when we examine and deal with each task separately.

In today's gospel Jesus tells his disciples that he will be with them only a little while longer. He gives them the greatest commandment, to "love one another." Jesus shows his disciples how to love through his life, death and resurrection.

Jesus is not only speaking to the first disciples in the gospel passage today; he also is speaking to his followers today. The new commandment to love as Jesus loves is a call to follow the example of Jesus in all that we say and do. This is how all will know that we are followers of Jesus--by the way we love one another.

Family Questions:

- Why did people want to follow Jesus?
- How did Jesus show his love for others?
- How can we follow the example of Jesus?
