YEAR OF GRACE ON THE Real Presence CORPUS CHRISTI 2021-2022

"and they recognized Him..." He is Real

THE REAL PRESENCE OF JESUS IN THE EUCHARIST

-Bishop Robert Barron, taken from 2020 Religious Education Congress (Part 5)

You know many years ago when I was in the parish, I distributed communion, I was back in my chair my eyes closed in prayer and I hear this voice, it was a 12-year-old server saying, "Father there's a lot of blood over there." I was, "what?!" I thought that someone had been cut, that someone...what?! What he meant was there were a lot of chalices of consecrated wine, and so after the Mass I congratulated him on his very healthy Catholic sensibility. He was absolutely right, it is not correct to refer to the consecrated species as wine but indeed, "Father, there's a lot of Blood over there." That goes way back to the Berengarius' oath. Here's something else from Berengarius, his opponents who won the day insisted, "there's something more going on in the Eucharist than in the other Sacraments." And again it's not to denigrate in anyway the other sacraments, but the claim here is that Berengarius' account might make sense of the other Sacraments. Baptism, Confirmation and so on, when a spiritual virtuous power is added to material elements. But I don't say when I put oil on the forehead of a kid at confirmation, "this is no longer oil," right? Or when I pour the water on a child at baptism, I don't say "oh this is no longer water," but I do say that in regard to the Eucharistic Elements, "this is no longer bread, no longer wine, something has changed." So first century-John 6, second to fifth centuries-those fathers I looked at, eleventh century-the church says no to Berengarius.

Now let's go to two centuries after that, to the thirtieth century, and to my great intellectual hero, St. Thomas Aquinas. We can overstate Thomas's importance, he's one voice among many, not more than that. Nevertheless, he's called by the church "the doctor communis" the common doctor, the doctor we all have in common, because there's something about the depth and breadth of Thomas's reflection, that is a permanent importance in the life of the Church. So, it's important for us to pause and look at Thomas' text on the Eucharist.

First through maybe a word about his personal relationship to the Eucharist, which was profound and intense. They say Thomas would typically celebrate two Masses a day, so the first one he'd preside at, the second one his assistant presiding, and Thomas assisted, but hey say that he hardly ever got through Mass without shedding copious tears. Now you're not going to sense that form Thomas's text, that can seem very dry and scholastic right, but he had this vividly personal relationship to the Eucharist. I've always loved this, his assistant at his canonization proceedings, some decade after his death, said that Thomas benefited far more from prayer than from studying, when it came to his writing his theology. And he said Thomas would frequently go into a chapel and he would rest his head against the tabernacle begging for inspiration. And then of course, I took my motto as a bishop from this, the famous scene towards the end of his life.

Thomas had just written the great treatise on the Eucharist from the Summa and he felt, even though it's a masterpiece, Thomas felt it's not done justice to this great sacrament, and so he dramatically placed the text about the Eucharist at the foot of the cross and if you go to Naples they have his cell still there and they have the icon they think that he put the text in front of, and then the wonderful story is that a voice came from the cross, "Bene de me scripsisti, Thomas; quam mercedem habebitis?" "Thomas you've written well of me," Jesus speaking Latin of course, to Thomas Aquinas. "Thomas you've written well of me, what would you have as a reward?" And then, what he responded to, is what I took as my motto as a bishop, "Non est aliud a te, Domine." "I'll have nothing except you, Lord." And that's Thomas's relationship to the Eucharistic Christ. If you're looking for this treatise, it's questions 73 through 83 of the third part of the Summa of Aquinas, so you know the first part of the Summa is about God and Creation, the second part is about the human being and our moral life, and the third part is about the incarnated Christ and the Sacraments, Thomas never finished that third part. One of the last things he wrote were these questions on the Eucharist, 73-83...

FIRST READING

Isaiah 35:4-7a

Isaiah prophesies about God's vindication

SECOND READING

James 2:1-5

James teaches that there is to be no partiality within the Christian community.

GOSPEL READING

Mark 7:31-37

Jesus restores a man's hearing and speech.

FAMILY CONNECTION

<https://www.loyolapress.com/>

Today's Gospel invites us to consider how we witness the healing presence of Christ in our care for and ministry to those who are sick. We notice that the deaf man is brought to Jesus for healing by his friends. These people beg Jesus to lay his hands on this deaf man so that he might be healed. Jesus' healing power is shown in his opening of the man's ears and the restoring of his speech. When family members care for one another when they are sick, they bring Christ's healing presence. When we pray for those who are ill, we ask God to show his healing power. When health is restored, we share that good news with others.

As you gather as a family, recall a time when a family member was ill. What steps were taken to help restore this family member to health? Talk about what it feels like to care for a person who is ill, and about how it feels to be the sick person being cared for. In today's Gospel, we hear about a time when Jesus healed a man who was deaf. Read today's Gospel, Mark 7:31-37. Notice how the man who was cured and his friends could not honor Jesus' request to keep quiet about Jesus' power to heal. We continue to celebrate Jesus' healing presence in our lives by giving thanks to God for the gift of healing and health. Conclude in prayer, thanking Jesus for the gifts of health and healing. Pray together for those who are sick. After each person is named, pray, "Jesus, heal us."

SEMINARIANS!

Bishop Tyson has encouraged us to pray for vocations to the priesthood and religious life. Kinzzy Dorely is Studying at Seminario Hispano de Santa Maria de Guadalupe in Mexico. Please keep him and those who are considering vocations in your prayers.
