The parable of the Good Samaritan

FAMILY CONNECTION

<https://www.loyolapress.com/>

Families rely on selfless love. Parents show love for their children not just when it's convenient, but whenever their children's needs must be met. Imagine if the members of a family were concerned only with their own needs. How quickly things would fall apart!

In the story of the Good Samaritan, we learn about someone who went out of his way to care for the needs of another. He recognized the victim as his brother and accepted responsibility for him. As a family, talk about the responsibilities of each member of the family. Share how you, as parents, care for the needs of everyone in the family even when it's inconvenient. Ask your children to share times when they did chores and helped the family even when it was not convenient.

Read aloud this Sunday's Gospel, Luke 10:25-37. Talk about how the Samaritan went out of his way to care for the needs of the victim. Make a commitment as a family to follow the example of the Good Samaritan. Explain that the more you learn to accept responsibility for each other's needs at home, the more you'll be able to accept responsibility for the needs of others in the world.

CATHOLIC CAMPAIGN FOR HUMAN DEVELOPMENT WORKING ON THE MARGINS

I should no longer say that I have neighbors to help, but that I must myself be a neighbor to others.

—Pope Francis, Fratelli Tutti, no. 81

For more than 50 years, the Catholic Campaign for Human Development (CCHD) has supported organizations that combat poverty and improve the lives of people in communities across the United States. From empowering immigrants in towns along the southern border to advocating for improved housing and educational opportunities in northern and midwestern cities, CCHD-funded groups tackle a wide range of economic and social justice challenges that affect local communities in rural and urban areas.

In areas of Tennessee where coal-mining operations and landfills have caused water pollution and other environmental damage, Statewide Organizing for Community eMpowerment (SOCM) works with governments and regulatory agencies to limit hazardous waste disposal in landfills and to require environmental cleanup as part of the permitting process for new business operations.

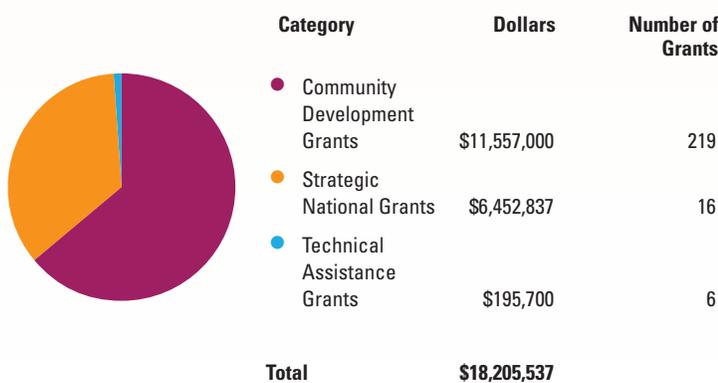

Environmental damage affects all of us, most especially low-income people who are affected by water pollution resulting from mineral extraction, lack of access to healthy foods in urban “food deserts,” and natural disasters caused by climate change. The Church teaches that “the natural environment is a collective good, the patrimony of all humanity and the responsibility of everyone” (Pope Francis, Laudato Si’, no. 95). Since the release of Laudato Si’ in 2015, CCHD has invested more than $4.3 million in organizations that work to protect the environment and combat pollution. When you support CCHD, you support organizations that work to protect the air, soil, and water for all the members of their communities.

CAMPAÑA CATÓLICA PARA EL DESARROLLO HUMANO TRABAJANDO DESDE LA PERIFERIA

Entonces, ya no digo que tengo “prójimos” a quienes debo ayudar, sino que me siento llamado a volverme yo un prójimo de los otros.

—Papa Francisco, Fratelli Tutti, no. 81

Por más de 50 años, la Campaña Católica para el Desarrollo Humano (CCHD) ha apoyado a organizaciones que luchan contra la pobreza y mejoran la vida de las personas en comunidades en Estados Unidos. Desde capacitar a los inmigrantes en los pueblos a lo largo de la frontera sur hasta abogar por mejores oportunidades para la vivienda y la educación en ciudades del norte y del medio oeste, los grupos financiados por CCHD se enfrentan a una gran cantidad de desafíos económicos y de justicia social que afectan a las comunidades locales en áreas urbanas y rurales.

En áreas de Tennessee, en donde las operaciones para la extracción del carbón y para el relleno sanitario han causado la contaminación del agua y otros daños ambientales, el Statewide Organizing for Community eMpowerment (SOCM) trabaja con el gobierno y las agencias reguladoras a fin de limitar la eliminación de desechos peligrosos en los rellenos sanitarios y para exigir la limpieza ambiental como parte del proceso para la obtención de permisos en las nuevas operaciones comerciales.

El daño ambiental nos afecta a todos, pero especialmente a las personas de bajos recursos quienes son afectadas por la contaminación del agua que resulta de la extracción del mineral, por la falta de acceso a alimentos saludables en los “desiertos alimentarios” urbanos y los desastres naturales causados por el cambio climático. La Iglesia enseña que “El medio ambiente es un bien colectivo, patrimonio de toda la humanidad y responsabilidad de todos” (Papa Francisco, Laudato Si', no. 95). Desde la publicación de Laudato Si' en el 2015, CCHD ha invertido más de $4.3 millones en organizaciones que trabajan para proteger el ambiente y combatir la contaminación. Cuando ustedes apoyan a CCHD, están apoyando a organizaciones que trabajan para proteger el aire, el suelo y el agua para todos los miembros de sus comunidades.

Prayer tips from the Saints

Prayer at its best is a personal conversation with God and fuels our friendship with Him. Try these simple "pro-tips" from the saints:

St. John of the Cross: According to St John, naming our human needs and presenting them before God in prayer are acts of love. He taught that we don't need to spell out what we need or want, but offer our need to God and ask Him to do what pleases Him, "... because the Lord knows what is suitable for us better than we do."

St. Bernard of Clairvaux: "Those who are sincere and wise will not fail to 'chew' the psalm with their mind." Good prayer is fed by reading and meditating upon Scripture. A good Catholic commentary can help, too.

St. Teresa of Avila: "He wants to ... know the love you have for Him, whether it is present in dryness as well as in spiritual delights." Good prayer, like true love, perseveres even in difficulty or dryness. Our sincere efforts please God.

Faith First: God at the Center

By LOUIE LATINA <https://lifeteen.com/blog/faith-first-god-center/>

The value that we place on something is directly proportional to the amount of time, attention, and energy we give to that one thing. For example, if NFL football is important to someone, it can be assumed that they spend a lot of time watching football, checking statistics, tracking specific teams and players, and analyzing games. In addition, they may spend time in the off-season following players, keeping up with the who is drafted to what team, and even watching incoming college students as they continue to develop their game. Therefore, in this example, the time spent on NFL football communicates to anyone that it is important to that person. If this is true for something like football, or any other interest, then it is certainly true for our faith. If faith is something that is important to someone, then they, too, spend a lot of time nurturing their faith by attending Mass, reading scripture, praying, reaching out to those in need, and even becoming involved in their parish. Does this notion hold true for a high school teen?

A few months ago, I had the opportunity to watch one of our teens (let's call him Kyle for the sake of this blog) play in a high school basketball game. Kyle recently finished his senior year of high school and was one of the leading scorers on the basketball team at a nationally recognized Catholic High School. And believe me, he had the three-pointers to prove it! In addition, Kyle has already signed a full-ride scholarship with Northern Arizona University, where he will be attending this fall. With all that being observed, it is evident that Kyle plays at the elite caliber of sports, at least one in which he will continue to pursue at the college level. Over the years, he has put in countless hours of training and practice to achieve the level of success he has throughout his many years of playing basketball. Basketball is important to Kyle, which is reflected in the amount of time he has spent with the game over the past several years.

Often, this tends to consume a teenager's life, be it sports, theater, academics, clubs, extra-curricular activities, or a combination of any of those things. Perhaps the amount of time they spend on any of those things may be out of their control; it is, to some degree, reflective of important things in a teen's life. Excelling in sports, achieving academic success, performing on the stage, or being a part of any group with a common mission are all important things and time consuming for teens.

The issue, however, comes when we turn to the topic of faith. Because of the busyness of teens, it often means that the one thing that gets cut from their life first is their faith. Out-of-town tournaments give good excuses for not being at Mass on Sunday. Studies at night overtake the amount of time that could be spent in prayer. And weekend performances drain the energy from teens where they do not want to show up on a Sunday night Life Night.

Getting back to the example of Kyle, what many people may not know, is that he attends Mass every Sunday. He also comes to most Life Nights (except for those he would miss if he were out of town at a basketball tournament), serves as a leader on our Core Team, and is one of our teen leaders in the Edge Middle School program. This is a teen who is dedicated to basketball, but he also is dedicated to his faith. He has broken the mold that we see too often for someone who is busy with sports and academics and eliminates the time spent on their faith. Kyle has communicated that his faith is important, and his actions support the importance of faith in his life.

This raises an important question: how does a teen like Kyle find a way to be committed to sports, academics, and his faith while so many other teens struggle? In Matthew 6:21 Jesus says, "Where your treasure is, there also your heart will be." If our Catholic faith and our relationship with God is something that is truly a treasure in our lives, we then place it at the center of our lives. When this is done, it can become a priority over anything else. It does mean that we do not spend time on other important things in our lives. It just means that our faith comes first.

What are the ways that this is best achieved and put into motion? If faith is truly important in the lives of teens, if they have truly discovered it to be a 'treasure,' then how are they to balance sports, clubs, activities, and even academics with their faith. Here are some suggestions:

- Build your weekend around Mass. As a teen looks at their busy weekend filled with practices, rehearsals, and studying, the first thing that gets cut from the weekend is Mass. Instead, decide on Friday what Mass on Sunday you will attend, and stick to it. Based on your schedule, this may mean attending a Mass in which you must wake up a little earlier, like the 7:30 am. There is a reason why churches typically have 5-7 Masses on the weekend to accommodate the schedule of any parishioner. Take advantage of your parish's full Mass schedule, and do not let Mass be the first thing that is cut from your weekend, as it is the most important thing you will do all week. Remember, Mass is the source and summit of our faith!

- Layout your Calendar for the Season. Typically, a teen will know their game calendar, tournament calendar, or performance calendar ahead of time. They certainly know when semester finals are taking place as well. Based on these dates that may not be movable, a teen can decide which Life Nights, Retreats, or events they can attend during that season. Youth ministry calendars should always be accessible and distributed in a timely manner to allow teens to compare calendars and decide what can be attended.

- Stay connected. If a teen misses a Life Night, what can we provide as 'makeup?' While it may not be practical to offer three or four different times a week for the same Life Night, are there materials that a teen can use to stay 'in the loop' on what they may have missed? There are parent letters that can be emailed out as well as discussion questions that can be used at home. Social media can even be utilized to give a brief synopsis of the theme or topic discussed in Life Night, or even give a challenge question for the week.

- Pray. While prayer is typically one of those things that make it to many lists that you will read on this blog, we must remember prayer is what roots us in our connection and our relationship with God. It helps to consistently place God at the center of our lives. If we can place God at the center of our lives in prayer, then this can be reflected on the field, on the court, on the stage, in our studies, in our interactions with others, and most specifically, each day in our lives.

God wants to be at the center of our lives and everything we do. While it is important for teens and us to have a variety of other things that become important in our lives, will God be at the center of our lives, and will we continue to encourage teens to place God at their center?
