Laetare Sunday {4th Sunday of Lent}

The 4th Sunday of Lent is called "Laetare Sunday".

"Rejoice" is the first word of today's entrance antiphon, and we rejoice because we know that the love God bears for us is stronger than any trials, hardships, or sufferings we may endure, even death. We know that the suffering and death of Jesus we are preparing for holds the greatest victory imaginable: our salvation.

The boundless love of God is on full display in the readings today. Although the chosen people "added infidelity to infidelity", God showed His forgiveness and mercy again and again. The Lord of History shows his compassion through King Cyrus of Persia who put an end to the Exile and deportation of the people, and even restore the holy city of Jerusalem. Paul testifies that our salvation comes from the great love God has for us. The Gospel gives us the joy of knowing that "God so loved the world that he gave his only Son".

On March 1 Archbishop Luis Ladaria, S.J., Director of the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith made public a document concerning salvation. This document in line with the tradition of the Church reaffirms that salvation is a gift freely given by God and it is given through the Church. That is, we cannot achieve salvation on our own, not matter how good we are. It is because we are sinful that we have been given the gift of redemption. Jesus died for our sins. Since ancient times as the Book of Chronicles tells us, people "added infidelity to infidelity"; Paul also testifies when he says that "even when we were dead through our trespasses, God made us alive together with Christ." We can't understand our lives except by the great merciful love of God.

Reflecting on these same texts Pope Francis states that "God's love knows no limits." Since we were created in the image and likeness of God, God himself has rescued us from the consequences of sin and evil. Through his Son, God has given us the greatest gift: our salvation. Hence we are called to be "people of hope" because the merciful love of God has saved us.

Although Nicodemus was not yet a believer but curious, he approached Jesus in the middle of the night. Jesus meanwhile took the opportunity to speak of faith and a new birth. Significantly, this passage ends with a lesson about living in the light. In approaching Jesus, who is "the light of the world," Nicodemus comes to the light and is not only enlightened, but also is led gently to true faith. As we approach the celebration of Holy Week, may the encounter with the merciful love of God lead us to the salvation that is given in the Church.

Fr. Hernan P., S.J.
