Fr. Phil's Communiqué

The Merciful Love of Jesus Family

Through much prayer and discernment, this will be our Family name that identifies us from other Families of Parishes within the Archdiocese of Detroit. There is something special about a name: it bestows an identity. In our case, it presents us working together in a united front toward a common goal. While we preserve our individual identity as Holy Family, St. Augustine, and St. Mary Mystical Rose, having this Family name reminds us that we are all called to work with one another in the vineyard. It's the invitation for us to come together and do what is necessary in building up the Mystical Body of Christ, not only in our parish communities but beyond. Each of us are representatives of The Merciful Love of Jesus. Wherever we go, this is precisely what we are called to bring into the world. It may look different, depending on our personalities, our knowledge and competency in regards to the faith, our earnest seeking and desire for the Holy Spirit to work through us and in us, our level of surrender to the Father's will... This name calls forth what we ought to be, not only in the community, in the vicariate or Archdiocese, but for all. However, it's important to recognize the concept of this name and what it means. Our understanding of mercy and love has to first be rooted in truth (as opposed to our own subjective take as to what mercy is or what love is).

So, what is mercy? The following exposition on mercy is taken from <https://www.thedivinemercy.org/articles/st-thomas-aquinas-virtue-mercy>

St. Thomas Aquinas (1225-1274) defined the virtue of "mercy" in his great Summa Theologiae (ST II-II.30.1) as "the compassion in our hearts for another person's misery, a compassion which drives us to do what we can to help him." For St. Thomas this virtue has two aspects: "affective" mercy and "effective" mercy.

Affective mercy is an emotion: the pity we feel for the plight of another. In this respect, St. Thomas says, human mercy is grounded in a "defect" in our nature: the defect of human vulnerability to suffering. We feel pity for those who suffer because we too are subject to such miseries. Thus, our affective sympathy for others arises from our capacity for empathy. St. Thomas notes: "Those who reckon themselves happy and so powerful that no ill may befall them are not so compassionate" (II-II.30.2). To some extent, however, the intensity of our affective mercy for the plight of another also depends upon how closely we are united to others in friendship (II-II.30.2): "The person who loves regards his friend as another self, and so he counts his friend's troubles as his own, and grieves over them as if they were his own." An affective bond, we might say, easily forms between friends, and this renders good friends all the more capable of sympathy for each other's plight.

Effective mercy, on the other hand, is something that we do, a positive action for the good of another, taking steps to relieve the miseries or meet the needs of others. According to St. Thomas, the Latin word "misericordia" literally means "having a miserable heart"--both affectively and effectively--for another person's misery...

St. Thomas argues that the human virtue of mercy necessarily will be both affective and effective. However, to be the authentic virtue of "mercy," it must manifest two additional characteristics. First, it must be rooted in "right reason"--that is, in the truth about the sufferings of others, and what is in fact the objective "good" for the other whom we seek to help. Secondly, the virtue of mercy is proven in effective action for the good of others, as circumstances permit. If we merely "sympathize" with the plight of another and "share their pain" without making the best of the opportunities we have to help them, then virtue of mercy does not abide in us in any significant degree.

This is the mercy by which we are called to live. This is the depth of mercy we are called to be for our brothers and sisters. Sometimes mercy is misconstrued and reduced to being permissive: one thinks only of mercy as dismissing the gravity of evil that is found in a particular act. This is why St. Thomas Aquinas says that it must be

Q. The very thought that bread and wine are magically transformed into the body and blood of Christ is so far fetched, it is unbelievable. When will the Catholic Church stop teaching this absurdity?

A. First let's address your misunderstanding. Nothing magical happens during the priest's prayer consecrating the Host. Magic is sorcery. Sorcery is of the Devil and strongly condemned by God thru Sacred Scripture and the Holy Catholic Church. See: Deuteronomy 18:9-12, Galatians 5:19-21, Acts 19:18-19, and the Catechism of the Catholic Church 2117. There are way too many references to list here. Please investigate this for yourself.

For your second point, I agree whole heartedly. Ordinary bread and wine being miraculously transformed into the Body and Blood of Christ is indeed far fetched and unbelievable. But then again, so is your eyeball, the life in a gnat or an elephant and an acorn becoming a 30 foot tall oak tree. These realities are also so farfetched as to be unbelievable.

We do not need to believe in something for it to exist. Belief is not a prerequisite to reality. I personally could not believe in an all powerful God, creator of all that exists, and then doubt that He had the power to transform the substance of bread and wine into the essence of the Body and Blood of Jesus Christ. And, do it all while maintaining the appearance of bread and wine. This to me seems like a simple task for the God who created another unbelievable absurdity when He created a spherical earth and suspended it on nothing. (Job 26:7, Isaiah 40:21). Miracles are part and parcel to the Creator of everything.

Now for your question: The Catholic Church will never stop teaching the Real Presence because she can't stop teaching truth. In the Book of Revelation, John is caught up into heaven and observes the saints celebrating Mass. It's the same Mass we celebrate with the same Eucharistic banquet. All of the redeemed of Christ are forever members of His Church. Therefore, it is not a farfetched absurdity to conclude, the Eucharist is an eternal reality never to be retracted by the Church established and protected by Jesus Himself.

Why Have You Remained Catholic?

In a world where it seems there are so many reasons to choose not to remain true to our Catholic faith, why have you remained Catholic? We asked this question in a recent edition of our Flocknote email newsletter and here are a couple responses:

"I actually left the Church in my twenties and went to many other Christian denominations.

I came back and stay Catholic because of the Holy Eucharist and the other sacraments. Jesus was missing in all of the other denominations.

That is why it is so important to impress the truth of the real presence to all Catholics."

"I have stayed Catholic because it is the only Church that Jesus founded."

What about you? Why have you remained Catholic? What is it that draws you to the Church or back to the Church? We'd love to hear from you.

Responses may be submitted several ways:

- ⇒ Visit our websites and locate the "Why Have You Remained Catholic" button on the home page, then submit your anonymous response (preferred method).
- ⇒ Message us through Facebook
- ⇒ Write our your response and enclose it in an envelope marked "Why I'm Catholic" and place it in one of our collection boxes.

As Fr. Phil noted in his article "Each of us are representatives of the Merciful Love of Jesus" and sharing our faith stories is just one small step in building up the Mystical Body of Christ.

Submitted responses will be shared, however, may be edited for length and content.

seen in accordance with “right reason” as well as with the view of helping the other achieve that which is objectively good: it should lead somewhere that is oriented toward their authentic human flourishing. It is vital to recognize that this redirection toward authentic human flourishing, one that is rooted in Jesus, may or may not be in conformity with the individual receiving mercy. Mercy, then, assists an individual to be better than where he is. This “better” is seen in relation to the light of the Gospel, the teachings of Jesus, and that which has been passed down to us through the Church.

This description of mercy then shapes how we are called to love. This love is oriented to none other than Jesus! He said, “I am the way, and the truth, and the life. No man cometh to the Father, but by me” (Jn 14:6). Our goal is to save souls. This means each of us ought to be oriented toward that. Having this as our Family name should serve as this reminder for each and every one of us. Also, there is power in the Holy and Most Sacred Name of Jesus. Why wouldn’t we want to include His name in our Family?

Faith Formation

Faith Formation kicks off this weekend as we celebrate Catechetical Sunday! Please keep our children, families, and catechists all in your prayers as we begin. All those who haven’t registered but would like to, please be sure to call the Faith Formation office to register!

CSA

Thank you for all those who have been generous in supporting our parishes through the CSA. If you had forgotten or were not able to do so yet, there is still time. Supporting our parishes through CSA is the best way to give to the parish: all of it will benefit the parish directly. There should be an infographic in the bulletin that can give you a quick snapshot of what I am referring to.

God bless your week.

What a beautiful day it was...

this past Tuesday when Fr. Phil was officially installed as pastor of our parish family. We are so fortunate to have a good shepherd and a good leader as Fr. Phil leading us. There were plenty of people representing all three parishes at the mass in which Bishop Bob Fisher presided.

Update on me...

So many people continue to ask me if I have heard any word on my departure. To answer briefly; no I have not. I am very much at peace with the current situation and very happy that God has given me more time to serve my family here at Holy Family, St. Augustine, and St. Mary Mystical Rose. I truly have grown to love these churches and my prayer now is that I may stay until Christmas.

I am still living part time in Ray Township and part time in Armada. The Diocese wants priests to live together and has asked me to continue to live with Fr. Chris, the Pastor at St. Francis where I was living before. Depending on the day and the amount of stuff going on determines where I lay my head at night. It reminds me of the scripture passage from Luke 9:58

“Jesus replied, “Foxes have dens and birds have nests, but the Son of Man has no place to lay his head.”

Please continue to pray for me. I am overwhelmed by your patience and your generosity that you have shown to me in these last two months.

An invitation...

Over the last year and a half I have really fallen in love with the Traditional Latin Mass (TLM). The TLM traces its beginning back to the third century. It was the Mass that many of our older generation grew up attending and was the mass of our ancestors and every saint we ask for their intercession.

In 1965 Holy Mother Church reformed the secret liturgy to give us a modernized condensed sacrifice of Calvary that we have today. The “new Mass” is beautiful and glorious and we offer it so well here with our praise to God in so many ways.

I have offered the TLM on many occasions but not a Solemn sung Mass. I will be offering my first Solemn High Mass on December 3rd at Old St. Mary’s in Greektown—one of Detroit’s most beautiful churches. Invite everyone to come to the church if they are able to for a beautiful celebration of Mass.

I especially invite those who have never been to a Traditional Latin Mass. It will be a wonderful encounter with Jesus Christ and to see the historic way in which we as Catholics worshiped.

From the desk of 8th Grade Homeroom

By Chris Austin
Middle School Religion Teacher

*"Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart."
Proverbs 22:6*

My first day in the classroom this year was filled with anticipation and some fear. OK, a lot of fear. The youth that came in and filled the chairs each hour impressed me beyond my expectations. It was evident that the 6th, 7th, and 8th grade students have been "trained up." The character and poise that each of them exhibited was not only exemplary, it was a sure hope in the church's ongoing mission. Their education and self-possession was evidence that they have been trained up well at home as well as at their school.

It is my joy to bring each one of them to a richer understanding of their Catholic faith and how to recognize that through the traditions of the church, each of us are drawn into a close personal relationship with Jesus and God the Father.

This week and last, we had many classroom discussions in between textbook work and teaching stories. I was surprised to see the hunger for learning their faith they displayed at this age. This week, we begin the Circle of Grace program, which many of you are familiar with. The 7th and 8th grade students will without a doubt have much to talk about when we reach the topic of social justice. Our world gives us many examples of good and bad. It is our students at St. Augustine that have been trained up and are the Christian soldiers ready to teach the good news of the Gospel to the world with their knowledge and by their way of life. They are told each day that their hands and feet are the hands and feet of Jesus and just how fundamental they are to spread His message of love. They are truly special. God bless your week. Mary our Mother, pray for us!

- For the Parishioners

What does it mean to have a Mass "offered" for someone?

An individual may ask a priest to offer a Mass for several reasons: for example, in thanksgiving, for the intentions of another person (such as on a birthday), or, as is most common, for the repose of the soul of someone who has died. One must never forget the infinite graces that flow from the Sacrifice of the Mass which benefit one's soul. Pope Leo XIII in his encyclical "Mirae caritatis" (1902) beautifully elaborated this point and emphasized the connection between the communion of saints with the Mass: "The grace of mutual love among the living, strengthened and increased by the sacrament of the Eucharist, flows, especially by virtue of the Sacrifice [of the Mass], to all who belong to the communion of saints." When a priest offers Holy Mass, he has three intentions: First, to offer the Mass reverently and validly in accord with the norms of the Church. Second, to offer the Mass in union with the whole Church and for the good of the whole Church. Third, to offer the Mass for a particular intention, such as the repose of the soul of someone who has died.

The special personal fruits of the Mass benefit the celebrating priest who acts in the person of Christ in offering the Mass and to the people who are in attendance and participate in the offering of the Mass. These fruits are both extensively and intensively finite, since each of us is finite. Therefore, the more a Mass is offered, the more benefit is conferred.
