Test Your Knowledge of Abuse Prevention: True or False? It is common for both child and adult victims of sexual assault to wait some time before telling someone about the abuse. True. It is common for victims of sexual assault to wait some time before telling someone. When the person was assaulted as a child, he or she may wait years or decades. The reasons for this are numerous: victims may want to deny the fact that someone they trusted could do this to them; they may want to just put it behind them; they may believe the myth that they caused the assault by their behavior; or they may fear how other people will react to the truth. # THE PASTOR'S CORNER

"What is best for us..."

Last Tuesday, July 12, was the memorial celebration of Saints Louis Martin and Marie Azélie Guérin, who were the parents of "the Little Flower," St. Therese of Lisieux, and eight other children, a few of whom were consecrated virgins. (It escaped my notice because it's not celebrated everywhere in the Church.) Marie died early in the children's lives, but most certainly never abandoned their care through her intercession. They were canonized by Pope Francis in 2015. From a letter of Zélie Martin to her brother Isidore:

MY DEAR FRIEND, I am really worried about you. Every day my husband makes sad prophecies. He knows Paris and told me that you will be exposed to temptations that, because you are not pious enough, you will not be able to overcome. He told me that he experienced them himself, and that he needed a lot of courage to come out victoriously from all the battles. If you only knew what trials he had to go through ... I beg you, my dear Isidore, to do as I did; pray, and you will not be carried away by the current. If you succumb once you will be lost. On the road to perdition as on the road to salvation the first step is all important; afterwards you will be carried away by the current.

When I closed the eyes of my dear little children and buried them, I really felt the pain. It is a pain to which I have always been resigned. I do not regret the pains and the anxieties I have had to endure on their account. Many people have said to me: "It would have been better if you had never had them." I cannot tolerate these words. The pains and anxieties of this life cannot be compared to the eternal happiness of my children. After all, they have not been lost forever, life is short and full of suffering, we shall find them in heaven.

Little Thérèse is always well and looks very healthy. She is very intelligent and we have very amusing conversations. She already knows how to pray to God. Every Sunday, she goes for some part of Vespers and if, by mistake, the family forgets to bring her there she cries uncontrollably.

My sister has spoken to me a great deal about your business... I told her not to break her neck because of this, that there is only one thing to do, pray to God, because neither she, nor I, can help you in any other way. However, He, who is never embarrassed, will rescue us from all this when He sees that we have suffered enough, and then, you will recognize that your success is not due either to your ability or to your intelligence, but to God alone, as it happens with my lace making; this conviction is very beneficial, I have experienced it myself. You know that we are all inclined to be proud and I notice often that those who have made their fortune are, for the most part, unbearably self-important. I am not saying that I would have been like this, nor you either, but we would have been somewhat tainted by pride; it is a fact that constant prosperity leads one away from God. He never led his chosen ones along this path, they had to pass first through the crucible of suffering in order to be purified. You are going to say that I am preaching, but no matter I don't wish to. I think of these things very often and I share them with you; now, call that a sermon if you like!

My dear children, I must go to Vespers to pray for the intention of our dear deceased relatives. The day will come when you will do this for me, but I must make sure that I do not have so great a need of your prayers. I would like to become a saint but this will not be easy; there is a lot of wood to burn but it is as hard as stone. It would have been better if I had begun earlier, when it was less difficult, but anyhow "it is better late than never." Today is then Wednesday, the feast of the Immaculate Conception which is a great feast for me! On this day, the Blessed Virgin truly gave me many very special graces... This year, I will go again to find the Blessed Virgin early in the morning... my only prayer will be that those that she has given me will all be saints and that I shall not be too far behind, but they must be much better than me.

Doctor Notta is very sorry that they did not operate at the beginning, as by now it is too late. However, he seems to be saying that I can go on for a very long time like this. But more than that we put ourselves in God's hands, who knows better than us what we need, "it is He who wounds but also heals." I will go to Lourdes on the first pilgrimage, and I hope that the Blessed Virgin will heal me, if that is what is needed. Let's remain calm while we wait.

Before leaving, I will assist at the first Mass here, arriving in Le Mans at nine o'clock, still in time to attend the High Mass, after that I will come for you... At the beginning, your father was not happy that I took all three of you, but he wishes it now, and says that we cannot make enough sacrifices to obtain so great a miracle. Even if I do not obtain it, I will never regret taking you there. We must be willing to accept generously the will of God, whatever it is, because it will always be what is best for us.

THE BOOKS OF THE BIBLE

THE NAME ZEPHANIAH IS THE 43RD BOOK IN OUR BIBLE.

Zephaniah prophesied in the late 7th-early 6th century time period. Since his book identifies itself as being during the reign of Josiah (640-609 B.C.), his would have been just before the prophecy of Jeremiah. When pictured, this prophet usually has a lantern in his hand.

In 1:12, we see him exploring Jerusalem with lamps, seeking out those who had become too complacent about things in life. He speaks of the Day of the Lord—not the Sabbath, but a time of judgment on the peoples for not being guided by God's command (ch. 1); then, Zephaniah warns Israel's enemies: they should not think of themselves as being all perfect just because the Divine Being is using them as a corrective measure against God's people (ch. 2)—you'll get a hoot out of 2:14; finally, all ends on a positive note with a Song of Joy and the return of the exiles (ch. 3).

When you finish this book, you will have read 43 (58.9%) of the 73 books of the Bible (only 30 more to go!), yet 1,055 (79.1%) of the 1,334 chapters of the Bible.

READINGS FOR THE 16TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Reading I – Genesis 18: 1-10a

Abraham, "our father in faith" graciously hosts three visitors to his encampment. They actually represent the Lord. In accepting the favor, they prophesy that Abraham's wife Sarah, barren up 'til now, will soon bear a son.

Reading II – Colossians 1: 24-28

Part of the mystery of Christ is that He reaches us ordinarily through one another. Because of his stewardship of Christ, St. Paul rejoices even in his sufferings.

The Gospel – Luke 10: 38-42

Martha and Mary host Jesus. He tells them of "the one thing necessary," which is openness to His person and message. He cites Mary to her sister Martha for her having chosen "the better part" while He is present.
