"Laudato si"- the Encyclical Letter of Pope Francis, released on Thursday to the whole Church and 'all people of good will'- attempts to raise the consciousness of all who read and reflect on it to the awareness of our contribution to the issue of climate change in our time and to consideration of what we all and individually might do to bring a greater respect, appreciation, and even reverence for the gift of creation that supports the wellbeing of all humanity. The encyclical can be easily obtained for personal reading and reflection and particularly on the Vatican website.[w2.vatican.va]

Attached to our Newsletter this week are the concluding prayers of Pope Francis. Reflection on these, before beginning the reading, might be a worthwhile orientation for understanding the Holy Father's purpose.

YEAR OF MARK

June 28th, 2015 13th Sunday in Ordinary Time

The writer of the Book of Wisdom tells us that "God did not make death" (1:13). Writing in the century before Christ, he gives us some insight into Israel's developing theology of life after death. "He fashioned all things that they might have being" (v14); we are "the image of his own nature" (2:23), part of creation that God pronounced as good. "But by the envy of the devil, death entered the world" (v24), he tells us in the text that first identifies the serpent of Genesis 3 as the devil.

Jesus' ability to heal leads many people to come to him. The healings are part of his work to announce and foster the growth of the kingdom. In the biblical mind, illness is often seen as a result of evil, so by healing the sick Jesus is conquering the presence of evil in the world. In today's Gospel we hear of two healings. Mark uses a method of storytelling known as sandwiching – one story is contained within another. Jairus, a synagogue official (v22), approaches Jesus on behalf of his daughter, who is "at the point of death" (v23). En route to Jairus' house, Jesus encounters a woman suffering from hemorrhages. Her faith in his power to heal is evidenced by her words, "If I but touch his clothes, I shall be cured" (v28). Touching Jesus' cloak, she is healed. "Your faith has saved you" (v35). The people from Jairus' home believe there is no further reason to bother Jesus now that she is dead, but Jesus tells Jairus, "Do not be afraid; just have faith" (v36). Arriving at the house, Jesus restores the girl to life, another example of the power of faith.

Writing to the Corinthians, Paul encourages them to be generous to those in need so that "your abundance at the present time should supply their needs" (v14). As God has been generous to us, Paul argues, we should be generous to those in need. Pope Francis has reinforced this message over recent months as he calls for greater efforts to fight poverty in our world and in our communities.

For Reflection: What area of brokenness in my life needs Jesus' healing touch? Do I make efforts to use my surplus to provide for the needs of others?
