

SAINT JOHN LEONARDI - PRIEST - MEMORIAL OCTOBER 9TH PATRON SAINT OF PHARMACISTS

Saint John stripped from himself every single personal interest, desire, or goal and merged his life totally with that of Christ. John was like a small twig grafted onto the verdant root-stem of Christ. John, Christ, and the Church all grew and thrived together as one living thing. He was a religiously inclined boy from the start. As a teenager, John studied to be a pharmacist under a local mentor for many years and later maintained a life-long interest in medicine. But mature reflection eventually took him down another path. He would not apply essences, compounds, or poultices to patients' bodies but rather feed the sacraments to people's souls. John studied for the priesthood and was ordained in 1572. Father John's experience of orthodox preaching, and of the fierce resistance it generated, convinced him that only an impeccable moral and spiritual life could draw people to self reform and conversion. John thus sought to mirror every virtue, to be a lighthouse on the rugged cliff, drawing all people safely into the harbor of Christ.

In 1609 our saint died well but too soon. He was infected with the plague while visiting the sick.
