

Solemnity of the Most Holy Trinity

We pray in the “name” of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit, not in their “names.”

Our Trinitarian supernova is both a unity and a plurality, both one and many at the same time. This means that God does not exist alone but in a community of love. God is not narcissistic, admiring his own beauty and perfection. Instead, the love of the Father is directed toward the Son for all eternity. And the love of the Holy Spirit animates, and passes between, the Father and the Son. The Trinity’s three persons do not share portions of the divine nature, they each possess it totally. This theology means, by extension, that because man is made in the image and likeness of God, every person is created in order to model the Trinity by living with, and for, another, just as God does in His inner life. Because God is a Trinity of persons, then, His perfection is more fully embodied by an earthly community, such as a family, rather than by a lone monk.

Scripture Outline & Reflection

READINGS

Exodus 34:4-6, 8-9;
Daniel 3:52, 53, 54, 55;
2 Corinthians 13:11-13;
John 3:16-18

God sent his Son to save us (3) and to forgive us, making us his adopted children (1). Like the Trinity of persons, may we be united in peace and love, through the Spirit (2), through when we offer God praise and glory (Ps).

“For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, so that everyone who believes in him might not perish but might have eternal life.”

St. Anthony

Saint Ephrem
Feast Day - June 9th
Deacon and Doctor of the Church

Ephrem was born in Nisibis in Mesopotamia around 306. At 18 he was baptized and was instructed in the cathedral school. He was made deacon, and when his city was conquered by the Persians he withdrew to Edessa. There he composed important poetry and hymns that earned him the name "harp of the Holy Spirit." He was the first to use the female voice in hymns. Saint Ephrem declined ordination to the priesthood. He lived radical poverty, wearing a patched and dirty tunic. He had a cave for his home and a rock for his pillow. Ephrem founded a theological school and was deeply involved in catechesis through preaching, liturgy, and music. He died at Edessa in 373 after contracting a disease from a patient he was caring for. Saint Ephrem is the Church's greatest Syriac language writer, proof that Christianity is not synonymous with the West or European culture. Ephrem's world thrived for centuries with its own unique Semitic identity in today's Syria, Iraq, Iran, and India. Saint Ephrem's Syria was not the "Near East," as Europeans later called the region. To him, it was home, the deep cradle of the new way of loving God that was, and is, Christianity. Saint Ephrem was declared a Doctor of the Church by Pope Benedict XV in 1920.

Here is a psychological suggestion for acquiring peace of soul. Never brag; never talk about yourself; never rush to first seats at table or in a theater; never lord it over others as if you were better than they.

We need to focus on the Gift of Knowledge filling our memory, the Gift of Understanding filling our intellect, and the Gift of Love filling our will. In that way, we are Trinitarian. These three gifts are direct gifts; contemplating gifts that lead us directly to God.
