Note from Fr. Tom:

Today, Jesus sends his Apostles on their first missionary journey. He is specific about what they may take with them. They will have to trust in the Lord and depend completely on the hospitality of those with whom they share the Gospel. Where the word of God is welcomed, the one who preaches it will be fed and sheltered. Where the Gospel meets with hostility, the Apostles are to shake the dust from their feet and move on.

Like the Apostles, we too are called and sent by our baptism, called to be disciples of Jesus and called to make disciples for Jesus. One in three people in our country do not profess Christianity, nor do one and three people in the world. Once we accept the call of our baptism, our work is cut out for us: to spread the faith by word and example as the Apostles did, trusting in the Lord and in the kindness of strangers.

Being a missionary disciple requires devotion, perseverance, and persistence. In the first reading today, we heard that the prophet Amos exemplified all these traits when he opposed Amaziah, the high priest of Bethel and chief advisor to King Jeroboam II some 750 years before the birth of Jesus. Amos was content as a shepherd when the Lord called him to lead a new flock. When shepherding lambs, he walked behind them to keep them always in his sight, making sure they did not wander off. As a prophet, he is called to lead, not to follow, but the goal remains the same: to keep the flock together.

Amaziah despised Amos and wanted him expelled, never to prophecy again. Though banished and censored, Amos did not stop prophesying and calling God's people to repentance. God, who is always faithful, does not give up either, telling Amos, Go, prophesy to my people. At the end of Mass, we are given the same instruction: "Go and announce the Gospel of the Lord." Not everyone will listen, but for those who do, the word of God changes everything.

The Apostles would have learned the stories of Amos when they were young, and if Amos was their inspiration, Christ was their motivation. The Apostles, like Amos, had a single aim, one shared by Saint Paul in the second reading today in his letter to the Ephesians, the call to holiness. May that be our goal as well: to live to the praise of his glory.

May God bless you all! Fr. Tom
